CHELMSFORD

THE VERY REV'D NICHOLAS HENSHALL
THE DEAN

Invitation to Gaia opening reception – Tuesday 11th October 2022 7.00pm

The Dean and Chapter of Chelmsford Cathedral are delighted to invite you to the launch event of the outstanding immersive art installation – Gaia – by Luke Jerram at Chelmsford Cathedral. This will be held on Tuesday 11th October 2022 commencing at 7pm, drinks and canapes will be provided.

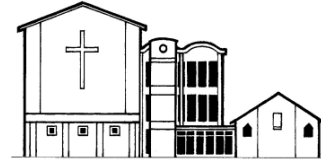

Measuring six metres in diameter and created from 120dpi detailed NASA imagery, Gaia gives visitors an opportunity to view our planet, floating in three dimensions, as if from space- an incredibly beautiful, fragile and precious place. Our inspiring creative and educational programme accompanying the installation will concentrate on the sustainability of the environment and offer opportunities for connection and engagement with a large audience.

We will be joined by our key sponsors Essex County Council, Climate Action Commission and Anglia Ruskin University who will also be launching their inaugural Chelmsford Science festival. This will be an opportunity to experience the artwork, hear about the Gaia and Chelmsford Science Festival Programmes and meet some of the talented people from the Cathedral, diocese and supporting partners who are helping us to deliver this unique experience.

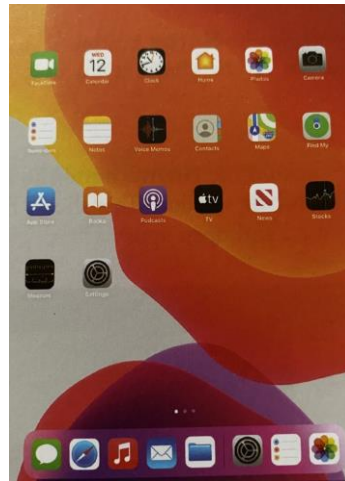

This is the first time Gaia has been hosted in Essex and we very much hope that you will be able to join us at the beginning of an exciting three weeks. We would be grateful if you would rsvp no later than 16th September 2022 to Marion Palmer, EA to the Dean of Chelmsford
