NEWS AND EVENTS:

SUMMER AFTERNOON TEA:

A note from Rosie:- to express huge thanks to everyone who came to the Willen Hospice Tea Party on 23rd; to the large band of people who worked so hard to set up and run the event and above all to wonder at people's generosity an amazing £1859.73 was raised: as it costs £7 per minute to run Willen Hospice, everything that can be collected is so very much appreciated. We were so incredibly fortunate that we were able to put up the marquees, enjoy the event and take down the marquees in the dry, as it poured with rain at every moment in-between!

CHURCH ROOF:

As has been mentioned over the last few weeks the roof has given problems with water coming into the church each time that it has rained. A new roofing contractor is in the process of laying a covering of felt over the roof of both the north and the south aisle, replacing the plastic sheeting as a temporary measure to stop more water coming through until a more permanent solution can be done.

LINK TO HOPE SHOEBOX APPEAL:

It is time to start thinking again of the Link to Hope shoebox appeal. If anyone would like to take part in this charity appeal the information and forms are available to take from the bookcase by the door of the church. Over 39,000 shoeboxes were delivered personally to people throughout Eastern Europe last year, who are on the edge of life, living in dire situations. Every shoebox really does give hope and changes lives. Please can any filled shoeboxes be given to Rosie Dawson by 22nd October (TEL: 261425).

AUCTION OF PROMISES, SATURDAY 21st OCTOBER

An Auction of Promises is being held to raise much needed funds for the repair to the Church roof following the theft of lead. It is ten years ago since the last Auction of Promises was held – many will recall what a great night it was, a thoroughly entertaining evening and very successful in terms of funds raised. We were fortunate in having the renowned Charlie Ross of BBC “Flog It” fame as our auctioneer – as a former resident of Great Brickhill, Charlie has kindly offered his services again. The venue is the Parish Hall and the evening will start with a two course meal, followed by the auction. Anyone unable to attend the auction will be able to submit bids in advance.

All the details and paperwork will be distributed this week, including a list of possible promises that you might like to consider offering for auction. In the meantime please put your thinking caps on to come up with some interesting items/promises to auction.
