

Reflections for 13th December 202

3rd Sunday of Advent

Preparing the Way

John the Baptist preferred to be in the wilderness – out in the open country, away from the centres of people and power. But crowds of people came to find him, came a long way to hear his message, and his call to baptism as a sign of a new beginning.

The church probably needs some people who are close to the centre, and the places of power, but that can also be a dangerous place to be. The Bible, and the history of the church, are full of examples of the dangers of living too close to power, and of how comfortable and seductive that can be. In every age the church also seems to need some people out at the edge, and on the margins, like John the Baptist, who didn't hesitate to criticise and challenge those who hold power.

And, as we remember during Advent, John also had the humble task of 'preparing the way' (in the words of last week's reading from Isaiah chapter 40), and pointing to the Messiah who was coming, and declaring:

Look, the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world

(John chapter 1, verse 29)

And we have a similar calling to share in that vital task of 'preparing the way', by declaring the good news that the Kingdom of God is near and close at hand, staying alert to the signs of God's presence and power in our world, and being ready to point to where God is at work.

John the Baptist had a humble, but vital task, and so do we, as we are called to help to 'prepare the way' for God in Christ to be revealed in the lives of people, and in the life of our world today.

Revd John Waller

God our Father, as John the Baptist prepared the people for the coming of the Lord, and baptized them in the Jordan to wash away their sins;
help us, who have been baptized into Christ,
to be ready to welcome him into our hearts,
and to grow strong in faith by the power of the Spirit.
We ask this through Jesus Christ,
the light who is coming into the world. Amen.
