Are you feeling settled?

Dear Friends,

“Are you feeling settled now?” is one of the many kind questions that often crops up as people seek to make us feel welcome to a new area and new Circuit having moved as a minister. As we contemplate another period of worship on this preaching plan, could I suggest that the question of 'feeling settled' is one that we all, whether we have had experience of relocating or not, should contemplate.

Christian discipleship – responding to the call of Christ to follow him – is a business that, if we take it seriously, means we should never feel totally settled. There is a very real sense in which the call of Christ upon our lives is literally 'disturbing'. Jesus presents God to us as one who wants to challenge our assumptions about the way things are and the way things should be, often turning our ideas on their head. In this sense the language of the Kingdom of God unsettling.

This plan is published on the eve of a special service for the whole Circuit inspired by our preachers and worship leaders. In this time of worship we are going to focus on what God's call is upon our lives - something that all disciples need to contemplate. In particular we are praying that some might be called by God to preach or lead worship. Would you prayerfully ask yourself what God is calling you to do - maybe something new? If that unsettles and disturbs you remember God constantly calls us to not be comfortable settlers, but those who are moving on, a travelling wandering group... I would be delighted to hear from you if you feel God trying to disturb you to explore preaching - or any other kind of service in the Lord's name!

With every blessing,

Mark
