Rev. Mark Pengelly's Message

Dear Friends

Having our routines disturbed is often an unpleasant and challenging experience. During the pandemic we've certainly had that happen, especially when it comes to the worshipping life of our congregations! I have said to a few people that I consider that the day the word went out that "all our Church buildings must close", with virtually no notice, was probably the most weird and unanticipated day of my ministry. If anyone had suggested anything remotely like it, it would have been declared impossible, or catastrophic, and yet.... and yet here we are! We are still the church; these awfully testing times have not (as far as I can tell) led to the collapse of our faith, or our experience of God, or our discipleship in Christ. Rather in the adversity of this extraordinary experience we've realised that whatever happens we can still be people of faith, still have an encounter with God, still live our lives as Christ's disciples.

As we reflect on this, I am reminded that Jesus was often the one who challenged the status quo and questioned why things had to be the way some assumed they were to be. Ultimately Jesus challenged the view we have of God, by asking people, as the prophets had done before, whether we really understood the things that mattered to God, or whether we'd lost God's love and redemption in religion that had become institutionalised. I suggest the experience we've been through has given us an opportunity to ask the same questions: what are we doing, and why are we doing it (this way!)?

As I write this (mid Aug), the preaching plan has been made on assumption that things will be 'getting back to normal'. In the sense that the radical love of God, as revealed by Jesus, can change all we do, I hope in some respects it isn't 'business as usual' ahead of us, but a new dawn, transformed by God's power!

With every blessing, Mark
