

CHURCH AT HOME

Issue 22: September 5th

Welcome, brothers and sisters to the twenty-second edition of "Church at Home".

Things are beginning to seem a bit more like normal this week with the return of our children to school. After over five months of having our kids at home it felt a bit strange to be sending them in. The typical parental anxiety about how they would cope was soon allayed by children confident and ready to start anew, taking in their stride the new ways of doing things. I have nothing but admiration for the teachers and support staff of all our schools for the way they have managed everything, often with the goalposts moving at the last minute.

It has made me reflect on how often God gets those anxious parent moments in our lives. He knows us individually and is our Father. Jesus called him "abba" and encouraged us to do the same. "Abba" simply means "daddy", the term a young child would use for their Father. But how much more than an earthly Father is God. Some of us have amazing Fathers, others less so, but our Heavenly Father is the perfect daddy and when we set out into the unknown or take a leap of faith He is there. He is the mum or dad at the gate hoping for the best but worried for our welfare.

Follow the guidance, encourage each other, pray and stay safe.

Rev Clive

Why We Worship

UNDAUNTED UNRIVALLED

St Paul's Group is going to Minehead Two

SPRING HARVEST 2021

A message from Bishop James

The reference to 'two or three gathering together' has a certain resonance in our times as we continue to worship remotely or with restricted numbers.

Experiences of the return to in-person public worship seem to be mixed. I was speaking recently to a friend who worships in a traditional non-conformist setting, where the focus is on preaching and singing.

For him, without the congregational singing, the experience was pretty flat and his preference was for staying online until that could happen. For others, including many who live alone, being able once again to be physically together with others, even if masked and distanced, has been hugely appreciated.

Our passage from Matthew 18 is an interesting one, not least when translators use the word 'church' in verse 17. For of course, the Church as we understand it, did not exist at the time when Jesus is quoted as saying these words.

It was after the resurrection and after Pentecost, that anything akin to 'church' came into being. So perhaps Jesus is using the word in its more general meaning of 'assembly'.

Whatever the setting, the emphasis is on maintaining the unity of the assembly, of the group, not least when disputes arise. In Matthew 18, the threat to that unity is at the personal and local level; disputes between members of the assembly.

Within the wider church, the threats to unity may be at a different level. The horror scenario is that in Matthew 18, where one comes to view a fellow believer as a Gentile or a tax collector - as an outsider. They are put outside.

That possibility is something which should be so unwanted for us that we do all possible to avoid it. It will be tempting to try to create the perfect church, which of course as is often said, would have to be the one in which 'everybody thinks in the same way that I do.'

But creating such a Church - and there have been plenty of attempts to do so - involves drawing boundaries in such a way as to exclude those who do not fit.

The image of the assembly which Jesus offers us, is a one where every sinew is strained to enable people to continue to belong, hence the sort of stages that Jesus enjoins upon us. Because, wherever people, even if only two or three gather in the Lord's name, he himself is there and his presence with us is what we would always wish for.

One of the things I treasure about the Church, is the richness of its diversity that we hold within our life. People who without the bond of faith would probably have very little in common.

Where the Anglican Communion is at its best, we see that happening on a global scale. When a congregation includes people of widely differing background, heritage and experience, we see it happening locally. It's not easy being that kind of Church.

We sometimes have to struggle to find and express our unity across the manifest differences that are between us. At its best, the Church is that community in which radical and conservative may be enriched by each other, in which we learn to respect those whose views are different from ours, in which we are quick to listen and slow to speak.

As St James puts it, 'The Church is that community in which rich and poor, well-educated and less well-educated, black, white and mixed heritage, female and male, old and young. African, Asian and Caucasian, may gather as one and discover that the Lord is among them.

The Church is where those who have wandered off into the byways of life perhaps, to be deeply damaged by that experience may return and find a welcome and a home.

While at some levels the experiences of these past six months have brought people together, at others we are seeing the hardening and polarizing of political and other positions in our society. And with that, the heightened awareness of divisions and differences. In that setting, what we are as Church, and how we express that, becomes an important act of witness.

Where we gather in his name, there the Lord is. And how we are when we gather, is of the utmost importance, for it is the Lord who is there.

James, Bishop of Rochester

Mission

Update from our mission partner, Beryl Baker from her friend Julie Fagin

Beryl is a nurse who works in Paraguay. She has been on the mission field for over 50 years and we have supported her as a mission partner throughout that time.

Beryl had travelled to Rio Verde to the petrol station/supermarket where reception is good so was able to access her emails and ring. At the ranch, problems with communication as usual, though it is good at 2 am!

The corona virus has come to the area. Pastor Augustine held a celebration anniversary service; the visiting pastor had the virus and it has now spread. The visiting pastor has sadly died. It means people are back in lockdown.

Rhett has been to the ranch, driven here by his wife Mari. (A huge answer to prayer – thank you Father God.) Rhett has returned to Asuncion now. Beryl spent some time with him; he is well and has been checking the cattle and buying hay. Rhett doesn't want his people leaving the ranch (54 of them including the families) nor anyone coming on to the ranch. Beryl has just been doing their shopping for them and for herself.

People are turning to the Lord. The women are holding daytime prayer meetings with bible readings. Initially they were organised by Pastor Victor but since the lockdown Beryl has been leading them in her house or on the veranda. (The men are at work and then too tired by the end of the day.) However weather is very hot, in the 40s even though it is winter time, and it is still very dusty from the road works so a struggle to continue. The tarmac is due to be laid soon.

Although there was a 32mm fall of rain that has brought some grass back, all the water tanks are empty. Beryl buys mineral water to drink for herself but has to boil any other water she needs. The wild animals are coming closer to the water holes, pumas and leopards, occasionally taking sheep. There are no wild animals near Beryl, apart from the ones that live there, that is alligators and anacondas, who are not a problem.

One of the dogs was given a new home quite a distance away but returned on day 3. What to do with all the dogs continues to be a problem.

Tim Curtis returned to Paraguay and spent two weeks in quarantine. As there is no water where he lives and works near Rio Verde, he has gone to Loma Plata to work. Pray for him as he adjusts to the new situation with the virus and restrictions. Pray that post has come at last including an important communication from Beryl's bank.

Pray for continued protection for them all.

Pray for rain.

Pray for a functioning vehicle. Beryl's car engine is now the problem the ranch manager Tito says, so urgent need for a replacement vehicle still.

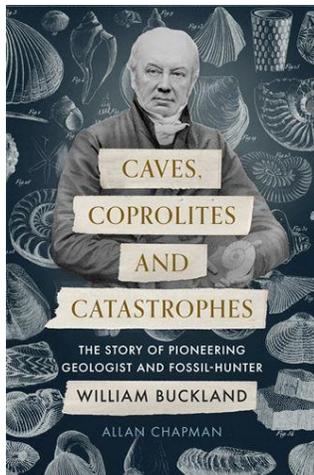

Pray that the prayer meetings and bible readings help the women grow in their faith and love for one another.

Beryl referred to this passage from Lamentations ch 3 v21- 24 Hope returns when I remember this one thing – the LORD's unfailing love and mercy still continue, fresh as the morning, as sure as the sunrise. The LORD is all I have, and so I put my hope in him. The LORD is good to everyone who trusts in him. So it is best for us to wait in patience – to wait for him to save us. (Good News Bible)

Or from the NIV 'This I call to mind and therefore I have hope – because of the LORD's great love we are not consumed, for his compassions never fail. They are new every morning; great is your faithfulness. I say to myself 'the LORD is my portion; therefore I will wait for him. The LORD is good to those whose hope is in him, to the one who seeks him; it is good to wait quietly for the salvation of the LORD.'

Books

This week's book suggestions come from SPCK.

Caves, Coprolites and Catastrophes by Allen Chapman

In 1824, William Buckland stood in front of the Royal Geological Society and told them about the bones he had been studying, that he called Megalosaurus. This was the first full account of a dinosaur. In this brilliantly entertaining, colourful biography, Buckland's fascinating life is explored in full. From his pioneering of geology and agricultural science to becoming Dean of Westminster, this is a captivating story of an exceptional and eccentric scientist whose legacy extends down to this day.

Into the Heart of Advent by Penelope Wilcock

Penelope Wilcock invites you to listen in on twenty-five conversations she's had with Jesus about the Christian journey and the meaning of Advent. Get ready to be surprised and challenged, as you hear Jesus' own take on the original Christmas and what it means for our world twenty centuries later.

Revolutionary by Tom Holland (ed.)

It is often observed that no historical figure has had a greater impact on the world than Jesus Christ. Why is that? And what difference does his impact make to the world today? It is also often said that Jesus was a 'revolutionary', and numerous books have appeared in recent years claiming just that - from the wild and sensational to the serious and respectable. This book, written by influential authors reflecting a diversity of expertise and points of view, considers the claims that continue to be made about Jesus, whether by believers or nonbelievers.

THE PIG

It was an evening in November,
As I very well remember,
I was strolling down the street in drunken pride,
But my knees were all a-flutter,
And I landed in the gutter
And a pig came up and lay down by my side.

Yes, I lay there in the gutter
Thinking thoughts I could not utter,
When a colleen passing by did softly say
'You can tell a man who boozes
By the company he chooses'-
And the pig got up and slowly walked away.
