

The Tourists

*Insert the names of towns (see below) to complete this story. Although the spelling may not be correct, the Towns provide correct sounds for filling the spaces.
(Some of the language is a bit old fashioned!)*

....., a Scot, asked his girlfriend Ruth and his English cousin,, to join him in a trip to London.

They decided to their resources and set out. The Scot drove a smart and took the front seat with him. As the was cold, he made her a shawl. He wore an old-fashioned, but his cousin only a They were a merry feeling and gay.

At midday they stopped at an inn, the, and asked for port wine. But as the landlord did not and suggested, Ruth preferred to drink After their drink they went down a lane a stile into a field where they sat down in the shade of for a picnic lunch. Everyone took a but at the end there had been as they were filled with They searched for fruit, but although the hedges were they could not find a single ripe and ate cakes instead.

Further on they came to a river, usually little more than a , but now so swollen that they could not cross by the , and had to find a Here the cousin nearly lost his luggage as his off the car into the water. He recovered it but the others could not forbear a the mishap telling him to more carefully.

The car was not very and they were delayed by a in the petrol tank, but at last they reached London and chose a hotel which looked imposing because of its Actually, it was poorly furnished. There was no in the lounge, only common chairs, and only one

Ruth wanted to buy a dog so they went to a in a but could not find a buying.

In Park they got lost and could not find a They asked some women gossiping on a the grass for help but they just to each other and would not to them.

The Scot grumbled: "I don't like the here, everyone and this appalling." His cousin replied: "I shall be glad to get home. I have been the trip and haven't enjoyed the" Turning to Ruth he added: "He won't get me joining him on another jaunt he or"

The places required to complete the story are all included in the following list ...

Andover	Cardigan	Folkstone	Newmarket	Reigate
Ashford	Chatteris	Freshwater	Nottingham	Ruthin
Ayr	Chesterfield	Highbridge	Nuneaton	Ryde
Bagshot	Clacton	Hyde	Oldham	Sale
Bath	Cowes	Inverness	Paisley	Sandwich
Beer	Craven Arms	Leeds	Parkgate	Seaton
Belfast	Crewe	Leek	Petworth	Sevenoaks
Blyth	Deal	Lewes	Poole	Speke
Bordon	Devizes	Lynton	Preston	Stockport
Broadstairs	Douglas	Minehead	Reading	Taunton
Burry	Eccles	Muddiford	Redcar	Ware
Bushey	Fleet	Mumbles	Rhyl	Watchet

You should note that while at first glance there may seem to be alternative answers, on further reflection you will find that while two towns may suitably fill one blank, there may be another blank which one place obviously fits and so you can deduce which town must be entered in the first blank