ONWARD CHRISTIAN SOLDIERS! A rallying cry echoed by our warden as we move into Year 5 of our interregnum! (a.k.a. "THE SIMPSON REPORT")

Today, as happens each year, I do my best to thank as many people as possible, whose actions seen and unseen have kept St Luke's afloat during another turbulent and vicarless year. So thank you to all who polish the brasses, renew the candles, brew tea and coffee, hand out books, welcome newcomers and old comers, set out the necessaries for Communion services, clean the church, and its loos, see that the lift is serviced, and the fire extinguishers checked, change the altar frontals as the seasons change and oil the lock on the safe and remove those annoying bits of grit that get stuck beneath the main door.

It's been another turbulent year, within this church and in this world which God made and we have marred. I don't have to tell you! What made the Halifax such a reliable plane was redundancy, not in the jobs sense, but the engineering sense. If one rivet failed, there were cables and apparently unnecessary struts which took the strain. What keeps St Luke's airborne is a network of relationships which enables us to withstand that turbulence. I would like to think that in this place people who feel that somehow they don't quite fit in may find some sense of belonging. We are all misfits, strangers in a strange land; Jerusalem on high our song and city is.

During the war, when allied planes came limping homeward after a mission, they were sent to a workshop for repairs. The received wisdom was for extra armour plating to be riveted over holes made by anti-aircraft fire. Then it dawned on someone that what they were seeing were the planes which had made it home in spite of those bullet holes. The damaged areas were precisely where extra armour was not needed.

Maybe the same principle applies to people we meet, who are facing problems in their lives. Ask how they are, and you may well get the peculiarly British lie, "Very well, thank you". If you know them too well to be fobbed off by this fiction, and their inner pain is severe, they may admit to one particular problem. You will, of course, offer a sympathetic ear and possibly some practical help. But it may be that this is putting plating over survivable damage. The real problem, unspoken and known only to God, may lie even deeper, and this requires our prayer; a remembering before God.

Back in the days when the early church was struggling under the rule of a dying Roman Empire, a local Roman ruler demanded of a Christian bishop that he should bring out the treasures of the church the following morning for his inspection. Clearly he was after gold and silver, but when he and his men arrived the next day, what greeted his avaricious eyes was a small group of people; lame, blind, ill and old. "These," said the Bishop, "are the jewels of this church!" Well, St Luke's has its jewels too. The glorious reality of the resurrection inverts earthly values.

Our armour may be dented and rusty, it may squeak a bit as we march, our swords may be bent and blunt. The crimson crests that once blew so bravely on our helmets are dirty and bedraggled. Our feet are sore, and some of us are limping. And yet – we are the soldiers of Christ, marching towards the celestial city. So hold your hearts and your heads as high as you are able. From afar, faint and clear, the trumpets are sounding for us.

Roger Simpson

Thank you Roger for your dedication and to Sheila for her unwavering support

After a loved one passed away, single parent Nikki struggled with her mental health and wasn't able to work. When her social security and disability payments simply weren't enough to afford the essentials, she had no option but to turn to her local food bank for support.

When trying to keep up with her essential bills she told us:

"The only way I can describe it is like being on a hopscotch, you hop on one leg from one bit to another, constantly hopping, never able to just stand still. It's tough. I'm never in a place where I'm in credit with everything and managing, because social security just isn't enough."

Nikki isn't alone. Five in six low-income households receiving Universal Credit are going without essentials. Our social security system should protect people from going without, which is why we'll continue to call on political party leaders to embed an 'Essentials Guarantee' into Universal Credit.

A DATE FOR YOUR DIARY...

We were delighted to welcome Rev Eleanor as our guest speaker at this year's Well Dressing Thanksgiving Service which was led by Barrie.

She will be retiring in July and we have been very appreciative of her support during our interregnum.

We shall be welcoming Rev Denise Williamson who has been appointed as the new minister for Endon and other Methodist churches in the Staffordshire Moorlands Circuit.

Rev Eleanor writes...

I will be having my farewell service at Endon Methodist Church on Sunday 14th July, but it will be at the later time of 10.30am. I hope that that means that you might be able to attend after your service, even if a few minutes late.

The invitation is to anyone who wishes to come.

*Every blessing
Eleanor*

Come follow Christ in the footsteps of St Chad

Working Together to create Safer Spaces

As a former social worker, I've seen far too many times the damage that abuse and exploitation does to those who suffer it. Often the effects endure for entire lifetimes and seriously affect a survivor's potential to foster good relationships, careers and wellbeing.

So it is heartening that the Church of England has taken massive strides forward in improving our safeguarding training and procedures in the last decade, albeit still not perfect. It's been a huge investment; not just in employing professional staff in the diocese to investigate issues and provide training, but also a significant sacrifice by clergy and volunteers in every parish.

As the diocesan senior lead of safeguarding, I'm truly thankful to all who give up time and energy to participate in that training on topics that are not entirely pleasant and sometimes emotionally difficult. But it is worth it. Together we are making our churches safer places for children and vulnerable adults. People in parishes across the country make sacrifices to do the training and then do the work of safeguarding. It truly is an act of love, fulfilling Jesus' command to 'Love your neighbour'. Let me reassure you that it pays off. I was recently sent a safeguarding review from Lichfield Cathedral and within it were highlighted three instances where the care and training of volunteers and staff who are not safeguarding specialists showed its worth.

Bishop Jan (left, who is Acting Dean of the cathedral) writes:

"Often the most difficult thing to measure is culture. How can we be sure that the attention we give to this important area of our work is making a difference?"

Three anecdotes stand out to me:

"The first was at the Chorister Christmas Party where one chorister had a forfeit during one of the party games. They were asked which three people they would expect to find in the cathedral and they announced, "The Cathedral Safeguarding Officer". An excellent answer!

"The second relates to a young girl (11) who appeared at the Christmas Light Show. Each evening over 3500 people came to the cathedral, and within all of that busyness, several volunteers identified the young girl behaving oddly and they called the nominated safeguarding officer for that evening. This situation was unusual and it became clear that we needed to respond in ways other than we might usually do, and I am pleased to report that the team adapted incredibly well and ensured the girl was safe until the Police arrived.

"Thirdly, during Evensong the Assistant Director of Music looked down from the organ loft and spotted someone they thought had been suspended from their church role. This was reported and investigated, and it would seem the individual should not be in church without an Agreement. A plan was swiftly put in place in consultation with the Diocesan Safeguarding Advisor (locally and also from the appropriate diocese) and the cathedral's front-line team, so that if the individual re-appears we are able to offer suitable challenge." Together, they achieved far more than a single vicar or Parish Safeguarding Officer achieves on their own.

Solitary Bees

Did you know that there are about 270 species of bee in the UK of which 90% are 'solitary bees'. They get this name as, unlike bumblebees and honeybees they do not live in complex colonies but nest individually, with the female laying one or a few eggs in a nest with a parcel of pollen and nectar to feed the young when they first hatch. Some of the more common types of solitary bees include Mason, Mining and Leafcutter Bees.

Mason Bees build nests out of mud or clay. Have a look on the sunny walls of your church or chapel and see if there are any little mounds of mud, these could be mason bee nests. Mining Bees, nest underground, digging tunnels to create their nests. Areas of short grass and bare ground are preferred by mining bees. Burial grounds often contain small patches of bare earth or cracks in the ground around monuments which can be great for them. Leafcutter Bees build a nest in a hole, crevice or hollow plant stem. They bite off circular pieces of leaf (particularly roses and bramble), which are then glued together using saliva to make a nest. Gaps between stones, old bits of wood and rough corners where dead stems are left will all be used by a variety of solitary bees.

Solitary bees are particularly important pollinators, perhaps because they lack pollen baskets on their legs so pollen both attaches and brushes off quite easily, spreading it around. Have a look for red mason bee which tends to use bee hotels, how about ashy mining bee which is striped black and white or the signs that leaf-cutter bees have been taking circles out of plant leaves.

You can help solitary bees by having a wide range of wildflowers and native grasses and a mosaic of short, long and tussocky grassland. How about a scruffy corner with some hogweed or bramble out of sight of the church entrance? This provides excellent nesting or overwintering cavities. People love to make bee hotels but don't forget that how you manage your local churchyard has a big effect too. Why not take photos of any bees you see and upload them onto the iNaturalist app which will both help you identify them and also make a record so others can see what you've found.

All the best, Harriet

PLEASE NOTE: 'SIX CHOIRS' CONCERT POSTPONED

The Six Choirs Concert involving Endon Community Choir planned for 22nd June has been postponed until 12th October. This is due to essential roof repairs at Longton Central Hall. If you have bought tickets you can either have a refund or they can be held over for the October date. Endon Community Choir will sing at Rudyard Methodist Church at 7.30pm on Friday 14th June but sadly not at our Well Dressing. We thank Rev Patricia for playing the organ and piano in church at intervals over the three days.

A SHATTERING EXPERIENCE! Our 2024 Well Dressing Queen Hope had a frightening moment after the service when the window in the door of the limousine exploded as she was about to step into it. Thankfully she was not hurt. Well done to Alex Waters who alerted us in the church and to Sophie who leapt into action with dustpan and brush and cleared up the mess.

REPORTS FROM OUR APCM 22nd May 2024

Sue Forrester writes....

Safeguarding

Safeguarding has an ever-higher profile and we need to ensure we comply with current requirements. There is a new Safeguarding Parish Dashboard which I have been populating online. We have some areas covered but are deficient in others. Each PCC member needs to complete an online training session entitled Domestic Abuse. This cannot be done as a group because each person needs to answer questions individually after the input. I will forward a link to everyone. Please also revisit the foundation levels of training – C0 and C1 using the same link. I have also completed the training on Safer Recruitment which is a requirement for Church Wardens too.

I have relocated the Safeguarding poster to a more accessible location at the back of church. There is a suggestion to put together a Welcome leaflet for newcomers which would contain useful information and would also inform people that, should they wish to take on a role in the church, they would need to spend 6 months attending services and events before this could be considered. This will also protect current church members.

If anyone has concerns, they should contact me for advice. In the event of my absence, the Church Wardens are the first points of contact. We have access to the Safeguarding Team at Lichfield.

Those who report concerns for others or for themselves must be assured of total confidentiality.

St Luke's CE Academy

The school continues to go from strength to strength under the leadership of Mrs Danylyk and her dedicated team. We are still waiting for the OFSTED visit that will confirm the Outstanding verdict – it could come at any time before the end of term. There should have been a SIAMS (Statutory Inspection of Anglican and Methodist Schools) this academic year but due to a lack of inspectors, this has been postponed. It is disappointing because of all the work done to prepare under the guidance of Louisa Harrop, diocesan Christian Distinctiveness Adviser. Links with the church are strong, with church members leading assemblies and facilitating visits to our building throughout the year for services and learning opportunities. At each visit I'm asked about the progress towards appointing a vicar and have to admit that there is none. The school would very much like a spiritual adviser to help it move forward; as would we of course!

St Luke's is heavily oversubscribed for the Reception Class intake in September and there were many disappointed families. There is a waiting list for in year transfers. This is because of the excellent reputation of the school in the local community; richly deserved.

While I may be stepping down as Chair of the LAC in the next academic year, I will remain a Foundation Governor and continue to foster the links that make St Luke's CE Academy such a special place.

Flower & Craft Club and Art Group

The Flower Club continues to be well supported and we have had some new members this year. Our members are generous with their arrangements which often decorate the church. It's a great social afternoon too. The annual flower arrangement display will be ready for Well Dressing Weekend; the title is Children's Stories and Rhymes. I'm very grateful to the members who fund their own displays and work so hard; it means more money can go to church funds rather than buying flowers. Grateful thanks go to Pauline Shaw and Jeanette Lackey for their commitment to the group and for sharing their expertise.

Endon Art Group came in to being in September 2023 as a result of a conversation with a local artist. Nicola Shipley was keen to get a community group started and when the group was advertised there was a great deal of interest. The group runs monthly on a date to suit Nicola's work schedule. Members have used pencil, crayons and, latterly, water colours to produce some stunning art works. Members may have some experience or none, but all enjoy the space and time to be creative. You can hear pin drop sometimes! The last session found members sketching in the church yard. There will be a gallery of work in the Chapter House for visitors to enjoy while they have a cup of tea and a piece of cake during Well Dressing Weekend. Thanks to Nicola for her time and enthusiasm.

LIFE GROUP and OUR NEXT PRAYER BREAKFAST

This is what used to be our Bible Study Group. We meet on the 2nd and 4th Wednesdays of the month at 7.00pm in the Chapter House to share fellowship and to deepen our faith through Bible study and prayer. This group provides an opportunity to raise questions about the Christian faith or particular aspects of faith. You will be very welcome to join us.

Like to know more? Speak to Patricia at church or call 07854 418 488.

In June we shall meet on 12th and 26th. On 12th June we will be looking at the story of Abigail - one of King David's wives. On 26th June we will either study a subject in response to a group request or dip into another aspect of Mark's Gospel. Notes containing an introduction, outline and questions to consider are available in advance. Please ask Patricia."

The next Prayer Breakfast will be on Saturday 6th July. 08.30 for breakfast and fellowship followed by prayer from 09.30 to 10.00.
