A message from Paul Henley, Artistic Director

When considering this third Festival, I would again like to thank all those people, past and present, who give help and support to our work in various ways. It is appropriate to be grateful for the positive elements that the Festival brings, but there is no room for complacency. It is no exaggeration to say that the classical music industry in this country is in crisis. As such, your support of this Festival is deeply valued. The Arts are not a luxury – they are essential. Thank you – I look forward to welcoming you

Paul Henley is a former opera singer who now works as a composer.
