Dying Matters, Leicestershire and Rutland: is an important initiative to help improve the end-of-life experiences of people in Rutland.

HM Lord-Lieutenant for Rutland, Dr Sarah Furness, has set up a comprehensive website which provides information on all aspects of dying, death and bereavement with lists of contacts of local care and support providers. The project aims to support people who are planning for their own end of life, as well as those who are caring for a loved one during their end of life and of course the many people who are left behind following a bereavement.
