ST CHAD'S - VICTIM OF VANDALISM

St Chad's Church has been attacked by vandals and significant damage has been caused to the roof. Probably looking for lead, the vandals have removed slates and torn up the guttering on the flat roof. It is estimated that perhaps £10,000 damage has been caused.

Revd Mark Coleman, Vicar of Rochdale, said "It's so pointless, they have caused a lot of damage. You can see where slates have been removed and metal torn back."

Rochdale Police were involved in one incident and it is understood they have apprehended a male.

Churchwarden Paul Bollington went up the Church tower to get a clearer view of the damage and saw signs that the town's Peregrines were spending some time at the Church. He said "I'm very glad they are keeping an eye on the Church building".

REST IN PEACE

The funeral of Audrey Kay, late of Braeside Nursing Home,
will be held at St Mary in the Baum
on 21 August at 1.45 pm

PETERLOO and ST CHAD'S

On Friday 16 August 2019 at 11 am St Chad's, Rochdale's ancient parish church, will be marking the anniversary of the Peterloo massacre with a simple ceremony to remember the dead and injured.

All are welcome as flowers are laid to remember in particular the 2 who were injured from the parish.

The list of those injured on 16 August 1819 lists 2 people with Rochdale addresses, Abel Ashworth of Church Stile aged 37 and William Kershaw of Lower Place aged 70.

Abel Ashworth was the son of John Ashworth and his wife Mary of Sheffield, baptised at St Chads by Thos. Bellas, who was a curate in 1779. Abel married on 21 July 1801 to Betty Hartley at St Chads. He would have been aged about 40 years on 16 August 1819.

William Kershaw was baptised on 8 April 1749. He was the son of William Kershaw and Susan. William Kershaw was buried at St Chads on 1 August 1829, his address is given as Lower Place. His age at the time of the Peterloo massacre is given as 70. He survived 10 years after the events of August 1819.

We have not yet been able to locate the approximate area of the graves, as most grave stones have been moved over time. The short service of commemoration and thanksgiving will take place immediately outside St Chad's, in the grave yard, where so many of Rochdale's sons and daughters have been laid to rest.

Revd Mark Coleman, Vicar of Rochdale said "I am very grateful to Donald Fletcher for the research into this matter. It is right that we remember and give thanks for those who spoke out bravely for a more just and merciful society".

ROCHDALE LITERATURE & IDEAS FESTIVAL 2019

19 October will be a busy day here at St Chad's as we host a fringe event in the morning and then a festival event in the evening.

The morning sees Canon Rachel Mann, a parish priest, writer and poet, deliver a workshop event, 'Writing the Divine'.

In this workshop, Rachel will explore the ways in which Christian writers and poets can write about God and the Divine in a sceptical literary culture.

This session will include an opportunity to try some writing exercises and reflect on our writing techniques. No previous experience is expected or required.

She is the author of seven books with her book about the Great War, 'Fierce Imaginings' being shortlisted for the Michael Ramsey Prize.

Her poetry collection, 'A Kingdom of Love' (Carcenet) is due to be published in September 2019. She is former poet-in-residence at Manchester Cathedral and currently Visiting Teaching Fellow in English and Creative Writing at The Manchester Writing School, Manchester Met University.

Later that day, there will be a Festival event at St Chad's with Rev Kate Bottley, 'the vicar off Gogglebox', doing a talk and Q&A starting at 6.30 pm.

Further details to follow when available.
