FROM THE EDITOR

IT'S BREAKING MY HEART to write this but this May issue of 5Alive could be the last one. Quite simply, we have run out of cash. There's enough in the coffers to pay the print bill for this one but that's about it.

It's delivered free (stress 'free') to homes throughout the five parishes in the former Mells Group with copies also available from a variety of places throughout the area. A web version is also sent to a number of former residents who want to keep up with the local news and is available via village websites so it's an important source of news and information.

To help keep 5Alive 'alive', if you would like to make a donation, no matter how small, either regularly or just one off, on your own behalf or on behalf of an organisation of which you're a member, let me know.

We have other fund-raising plans, including a 100 Club, a kind of lottery, but while these may well go a long way towards bridging the gap between ad revenue and print costs, it's going to take time to set it all up and for the bank balance to change from red to black.

We immediately need a couple of thousand pounds to see us through till September after which we may, stress may, have enough income from advertising for us to carry on for the future. We have contacted the usual sources and await their decision but meanwhile...

Assuming this is the last issue, may I thank all of our contributors, especially Hazell, our advertisers (please keep this magazine close to you so you can check out the services that they offer), all of the distributors and anyone and everyone else who plays even the minorest of minor roles for having kept 5Alive going in all its formats over the years.

And being optimistic, I have included the copy deadline for June in the panel at the foot of this page. FINGERS CROSSED!!!! Peter

United States, and this seems to be supported by his busy attempt to build financial and physical barriers to the other nations of the world. I was surprised and relieved to hear that our daughter and grandson managed to return to their home in New York State after a couple of days in Mexico. They are both foreigners with visas.

T.S. Eliot begins the Wasteland, a poem written during the great slump between the first and second world wars with the words "April is the cruellest month". Chris Hare, speaking in Rode church at the beginning of April, reminded us that the most important liberation day in the world was remembered this April. What is this liberation day we may ask? The answer Chris declared is Good Friday.

Why is Good Friday liberation day? At this point, if not before, you could be asking what has all this stuff about April got to do with May. Indeed, there could be anything happening in May. The president might have changed his mind! But let's get back to Good Friday. Notice it is Good Friday, not Easter Sunday. We remember Jesus, suffering. He was tortured. He suffered a cruel torturing death on a cross, his hands nailed to the wood. What had he done?

Jesus died for us. He died for our cruelty. He died for the ways in which we can treat those who are suffering, who have been forced to leave the lands they love, who wait on the French coast or the Mexican border with the United States. He died for those who steal, those who store riches and use their riches to abuse others. Jesus died in our place. He suffered the cost of our wickedness.

The message of Easter is that Jesus rose again, and we can rise with him and live new lives.

Anything could be happening this coming May. The message is, that whatever happens, Jesus' death and resurrection is a turning point. It is a turning point too for the president of the United States. How can we respond to the days that are to come? May is not January; new year resolutions are a little late, but it is never too late. We know that things could be difficult in May. We might worry about our jobs or our pensions. We might see our incomes shrink in the face of rising costs and sinking incomes. Let us turn to our Father in heaven and lay before Him our worries and what we see around us: whether it is Hardington Vale, our country or the tortured nations of this world.

Jesus, when he heard that Lazarus was dead, said: "I am the resurrection and the life; he who believes in me will live even if he dies, and everyone who lives and believes in me will never die. Do you believe this?" John 11: 25-26. Michael, Hardington Vale

JOTTINGS FROM A COUNTRY CHURCHYARD

I AM SITTING OUTSIDE in the shade (too hot in the April sun!) writing this on what promises to be the last day of the wonderful spell of sunny, "proper" spring weather. The sun has produced an explosion of blossom – bulbs, shrubs, wall climbers – everywhere splashes of colour. Some of it, enticed by the warm sun, is well ahead of its usual time. Even my wisteria is showing flashes of purple.

The prevailing scent at the moment for me is from my balsam poplar. As the first sticky leaves unfurl in April their sweet spicy tang overlays everything else. The whole house is filled with it for a few days until the leaves are fully opened and hardened, and the memory lingers with a longing for next year's repeat. I "stole" this tree from Rode Bird Gardens where I worked for 27 years until it closed in 2000.

Whenever the shallow roots appear above ground they put up tufts of leaves and if you cut out a small piece of attached root with a cluster on these shoots you gain a tree very easily. I put my piece in my pocket about 40 years ago and the tree has now overtopped everything else around it – even the silver birches. If anyone would like to grow one from my surface roots they are very welcome. I also have a Tree of Heaven (I've forgotten its proper Latin name) which also came from Rode in my pocket and that, as its name implies, vies with the balsam poplar in height.

The only things that haven't surpassed themselves this spring are the daffodils.

Almost all of mine are blind and I see the usually solid line along the village verge and encircling the inner churchyard wall are mainly leaves with just the odd flower. I had a letter from a friend "back home" to say that all the daffodils in her paddock are blind this year so it's not just a local failing. Maybe, as some random forms of flora do, they are just having a sabbatical year so we can expect extra glory next spring?

I notice though that HUGE dandelions are yellowing the verge in compensation and primroses seem to have exploded everywhere. Where I had a number of small clusters in the orchard, this year they seem to have joined hands to produce an almost solid carpet. Along the hedgerow banks locally they seem to be excelling, too. And the celandines in the churchyard! Breathtaking. There must be thousands – millions? - of little fluorescent faces smiling at the sun, providing a carpet of gold.

Another thing I have noticed - and so surely have others? – is the depth of blue in the sky on really fine, clear days. Not just a deep forget-me-not blue but more like the old Reckitts blue. Who of us remember the little blue cube wrapped in its muslin bag that was swished through the final rinse of “whites” in our mother’s and grandmother’s days? Is the sky colour something to do with a thinning ozone layer? My knowledge of meteorology is sparse. Any ideas anyone?

One thing I have learned lately – there is a name for my most favourite of all natural scents. When we get rain after a spell of dry sunny weather, immediately there arises an enticing and exhilarating, almost intoxicating, but sweetly fleeting smell which the ground gives off as the first rain hits earth and stone. I never know it had a name but I now gather it’s called petrichor.

I hope everyone enjoyed a good Easter! Hazell

Pat, who worked at the Heidelberg Materials site years, died suddenly in December 2024.

The seven-strong team from the quarry will put their best foot forward to tackle one of Britain's toughest outdoor trials within the 24-hour limit over the weekend of May 24th and 25th.

The route takes in the highest peaks in Scotland, England and Wales, starting with Ben Nevis, before heading to Scafell Pike in the Lake District and finally tackling Snowdon.

"We were all shocked and saddened at Pat's sudden passing and wanted to turn that into something positive," said Area General Manager Vincent Pitt, who is joined on the team by James Veakins, Dan Welch, Shaun Eaton, Kyle Smith, Chris O'Connor and Dan Billing, who will be the group's driver.

"In addition to placing a bench on the quarry loop footpath near Chantry in his memory, we thought that raising funds for a charity that could help prevent the loss of more lives, would be a good way to commemorate him."

VILLAGE NEWS

BUCKLAND BUDDIES

R.I.P Jenny Holmes died peacefully on Friday April 11th. Jenny was a member of Hemington WI and when that closed joined Buckland WI. Our condolences to all Jenny’s close-knit family and her many friends in Buckland. She is greatly missed. At the April meeting we were fortunate to have a return visit of Debbie Marrison. She had previously told us about her headwear business, but this time talked of her earlier life as a dressmaker. She had brought along a selection of things she had made for charity events for raising funds for breast cancer research. Rebecca Cary was asked to model a coat Debbie had made for her husband to wear when he played Joseph. This “amazing” full length coat of many colours was her interpretation and is really truly amazing. This was followed by a full-length evening gown with an enormous train covered in pieces of ribbon. Each ribbon had a message either from someone who had

CHANTRY

The woodwork in the church is now looking like new thanks to the many helpers who came along to help with the cleaning and oiling all the pews, doors and other wooden parts. We are extremely grateful to all concerned who gave up their time to help and also to Halecombe quarry for providing all the materials. We are very pleased that Hazell is well on the way to good health again. She still needs to take life a little easy but is now able to come to church for the services. It is good to see her with us again.

Recycling Sites Now Operating on Spring/Summer Hours: Residents wishing to take their waste to the recycling site can check online at <https://www.somerset.gov.uk/bins-recycling-and-waste/find-your-nearest-recycling-centre/> for opening days/times.

SAFE CYCLING AND WALKING ROUTES: The aim is to secure funding over the next decade for significant new safe routes for cyclists and pedestrians across all Somerset's towns. Comment at <https://www.somerset.gov.uk/roads-travel-and-parking/local-cycling-and-walking-infrastructure-plans/>

Household Relief Fund: This has been extended for another year and is for anyone who cannot afford to pay for essentials like energy bills and food. Contact Somerset Council for further information.

HIGHWAY AND FOOTPATH ISSUES:

Speeding vehicles in Vobster: Sara Davis, Traffic Engineer, has no record of accidents or speeding issues so Highways would not be looking at introducing a reduction in speed limit. If the PC wished to proceed with a new limit, they would need to fund it and this could be up to £10k. This would be beyond the financial reach of the PC. The PC could fund a small amount of the charge but the largest contribution would need to be found from other funding streams.

Speeding traffic and mud on road - Lime Kiln Hill: There has been noticeably less mud recently although the weather has been drier. The local PCSO acknowledges that there is an issue with speeding and will be asked to raise this with Highways.

Layby by Vobster bus shelter: Highways will add this site to the future scheme proposal list for consideration by their Asset Management Team but stressed that this was low priority. Cllr West asked whether it would be possible to fill the layby in at no cost to the Highways department.

ITEMS TO REPORT / ITEMS FOR NEXT AGENDA

Local theft: A tractor was recently stolen in Buckland Dinham and the local PCSO had said that there were other instances of people acting suspiciously in the area and encouraged people to be vigilant and secure their valuable items.

NEWS FROM WHATLEY

We are so pleased to welcome a new family into Whatley, Tom and Annie Chant, with their daughters Iris and Elsie. They moved to Poderosa all the way from Frome and are enjoying the peaceful beauty of their new surroundings. Welcome to you all; we hope you will be very happy in your new home.

As you will see, Friends of Whatley have been busy preparing a series of events for us, utilising the hospitality section of the church for a variety of community (Whatley and Chantry) social activities. 'Team coffee mornings' enjoyed a couple of hours coaching on food hygiene on 11th. Thank you Davin Kenwood for enduring our backchat and giving us all a deeper understanding of the necessities required when preparing food for the public. Thank you also to Alice Kettle and her helper, Lexi, for decorating the cafe area so effectively. The team were also presented with attractive home-made aprons, which made us feel very special. On April 12th the cafe had an informal opening, providing refreshment to the many villagers who joined in for the annual churchyard tidy up. It has made an enormous difference to the area, showing love and respect for our late villagers to whom we owe so much. Thank you all.

FRIENDS OF WHATLEY NEWS

Please join Friends of Whatley meetings which are open to all residents of Whatley, no previous attendance or long-term commitment needed. They are held at 6.15pm on the third Tuesday of the month at St George's church.
