LECTIONARY

Our Church-based worship continues reasonably well. It's not ideal, but – given the restrictions imposed by the virus – it is the best we can offer ... so we hope that it is meeting a need.

Many of you, though, have chosen (for all the right and sensible reasons) not to return to the church building because of the 'risks' involved, so it is important for us to maintain features within the e-Church such as the Lectionary, allowing you to continue to read a programme of scripture that suits your personal needs, and is in keeping with the Church's season.

Please find below, October's offering (which does also include the end of September!).

This Year of Matthew is gradually coming to an end, and before we know it, Advent will loom on the horizon. What was once my favourite season of the year, I shall be thinking of you all during it – and will, from my 'retirement', join you in feeling sad that you are unable to sing those most beautiful hymns. I do wish you all a most 'hopeful' season.

As before, where there are exceptions to the rule, they will be indicated below, especially when there is a Saints' Day or other Feasts.
