In the live webinar, we will be taking you through a step-by-step guide on how Muslims perform Hajj/pilgrimage to Mecca (which this year takes place during 7-11 July 2022). We will also be explaining the significance of Eid-ul-Adha and how it links to the pilgrimage to Mecca.

We will explain the rituals involved in Mecca, Ka'bah, Mina, Arafah, Muzdalifah, Safa & Marwah during the 5 days of Hajj. Includes Islamic stories that link closely to Biblical figures. This webinar will give you the confidence to teach how to perform the Hajj accurately and also help you to lead an assembly on Eid-ul-Adha at your school.

"Muslim Learner Services CPD for primary teachers is an engaging and comprehensive training package. It builds on your existing subject knowledge through a range of participatory activities which ensure you are better equipped for teaching and learning in the classroom. Imran has a totally non-judgmental approach and is encouraging whatever your level of previous subject knowledge. I would strongly recommend this course for the whole school, RE subject leader or any teacher with responsibility for covering Islam and what it means to be a Muslim."

The training is practical and informative, supporting teachers in developing their subject knowledge alongside offering practical classroom resources. Imran's training uses a range of resources including artefacts, videos, images and worksheets and training is always relevant and engaging. Feedback from the various inset trainings we have offered have always been 100% positive. "If you want the children in your school to have an informed understanding about different aspects of Islam then Imran Kotwal is the visitor to invite to your school. I have had the privilege of watching several of Imran's workshops with primary age children on different aspects of Muslim life and belief. The children really enjoy his interactive approach and there is always opportunity for their questions to be answered. They also appreciate his gentle approach and straightforward explanations about Islam. Imran also talks to teachers and parents in the school if you want to build an informed and balanced view about Islam. He has already worked with both community and church schools in Cumbria, all of whom praise his contribution to teaching and learning about Islam. I thoroughly recommend him to you. You won't be disappointed! "

"Dear Imran, It was a pleasure to welcome you to our school. After attending and being inspired by one of your inset training sessions, it was definitely the right decision to ask you to deliver workshops to all our year groups. You have been so accommodating to the needs of our school. You went above and beyond to engage the children in every class. Children and teachers were enthused and challenged. The staff were extremely complimentary of the rapport you had with the children. It was clear how passionate you were about being able to share your faith and personal experiences. We have benefitted greatly from your initial inset training and workshops. I will not hesitate to recommend you to other schools. Thank you again."

I have been delighted to work with Imran Kotwal and Muslim Learner Services for over three years now. I first booked sessions with him for Frodsham Manor House Primary School where he led a whole school assembly and worked with a further three classes during the day. Imran continues to work with us on an annual basis and the children have come to know him well and look forward to his visits to enhance our learning on Islam. He has also led workshops for Cheshire West Primary School pupil workshops which are always lively and engaging. He has led county CPD on the teaching of Islam and a session at our Agreed Syllabus launch on misconceptions. Once you meet Imran, you will want him to come to meet your pupils. I have always found Imran to be friendly, approachable, adaptable, reflective and open to any questions which you may have. I am confident that any session for pupils or staff will be an excellent use of your time and resources.
