

DIOCESAN COLLECTIVE WORSHIP FRAMEWORK

YEAR 3/TERM 3/WEEK 3 - REFLECTING UPON MAKING SURE THAT EVERYONE IS WOVEN IN

There are occasions when people are excluded from communities – examples taken from the New Testament can help children to see that it is wrong and unjust to exclude people because of factors such as disease or race. These are sensitive issues but they affect children and young people so it is important to address them in this context as well as within the appropriate curriculum areas.

THE PRODIGAL (LOST) SON (whole school) Luke 15 v 11-32

There is a version of this parable on http://www.bbc.co.uk/learningzone/clips/the-lost-son/4154.html

The son who took his part of the family inheritance and squandered it excluded himself from his family because he believed that his father could not forgive him. Forgiveness is often central to people being welcomed back into situations from which they have been excluded. How forgiving are the individuals/classes/community of the school? The Bible teaches that forgiveness ought to be offered even without an apology being given – how easy is this? What does real forgiveness require from the forgiver and the forgiven?

ZACCHAEUS (class or key stage)

Luke

Sometimes people are not very kind to others. They might not play with fairness. They might not share their toys or sweets. They might seem to be selfish. Some people are not very popular. One such character was Zacchaeus. http://www.bbc.co.uk/learningzone/clips/zaccheus-meets-jesus/4465.html
Jesus did not look at all the things that made Zacchaeus difficult to like – instead, he invited himself to Zacchaeus' house and helped him to see that he was behaving without love and concern for others in the community. How can we be there for those around us who do not always make themselves popular or likeable? Do we keep trying to be friends and include them in our friendships?

When we forget others, (point to others) When we forget God (point up) We hurt ourselves (point to self) We hurt others (point to others) We hurt God (qu trioq) But God will forgive us (point up) And draw us together (point to others) And give us peace (point to ourselves) Amen

Help us to listen to you. Help us to speak to you. Help us to live like you. Amen
