

Becoming a spiritual director/companion

Growing in depth

- Are you good at listening?
- Are you a person that others seek out to talk to about their faith?
- Are you interested in being a spiritual director/companion?

What is spiritual direction?

This is an ancient ministry, sometimes called spiritual accompaniment, prayer guidance, or soul friendship. It is about taking the time to meet with another person and talk about his or her spiritual journey and prayer.

Why?

People seek this ministry at different points in their lives and for various reasons. It can be a way

- to make better sense of a faith journey
- to find clarity and support at times of significant life choices
- to respond more deeply to God's presence and move toward wholeness and freedom.

Many people find that, at particular points in their pilgrimage, this pattern of reflective companionship can be a significant help.

Who?

The person offering this ministry needs to be a person of prayer who makes the commitment to accepting the other as they are and where they are. The companion or guide's role is to support the other in discerning God's activity in their lives.

What?

The important thing is that this is a 'sacred space' into which someone can bring anything but into which they do not have to bring anything. There are no expectations, and no judgement. It is a listening and accepting space.

How?

People usually meet face to face, normally in the accompanier's home, but other arrangements can be made if, for whatever reason, this is not possible.

I want to explore this ministry further – what do I do next?

Talk to your own spiritual director or find one. If you do not have one, finding one would be a good place to start. See the Prayer and Spirituality area of the Diocesan website www.cofesuffolk.org/prayer-and-spirituality
