Not to be taken seriously...

From the Anglican Diocese in Europe - Ukraine

Christina Laschenko, Church-warden of Christ Church in Kyiv, Ukraine, reflects on one year of full-scale war in her home country:

"We are surviving through the Time of Trials: Entering Lent for the second year running.

A year has passed from the beginning of a full-scale invasion by Russia of Ukraine.

Where are we now, where are we going, and what we have learned?

Where are we now?

Our small Anglican congregation in Kyiv has shrunk to about a dozen people who attend bi-weekly prayers and services in the premises of the Lutheran church in Kyiv. These include Ukrainians and staff of international aid missions. Several new Ukrainian members have also joined the congregation.

Where are we going?

We are staying here in Ukraine, and we are going to pray and give hope to all people around us who require physical and material help, human support and spiritual encouragement in these dark times.

What have we learned? We have learned three crucial lessons:

First lesson: "This is not a sprint; this is a marathon".

Ukraine was not conquered within three days, as Putin originally planned, and after a year we are still fighting. We grieve for huge human losses, ruined families, lives, and homes; for the whole country living in continuous fear of an air-raid alert. They want to expel us from our land, we do not have other options than to resist. Having reached that point we found out that we had good neighbours.

Ukraine (continued)

Death and ruination can be overcome only by compassion and love for your neighbour. Despite ever-present needs at home, Ukraine has sent 87 experienced emergency rescue workers to Turkey; they arrived on the third day after the terrible earthquakes and immediately joined the rescue campaign. Courage, perseverance and God's help strengthen our hope.

Second lesson: "We are all in the war zone".

Daily air raids hit shopping malls, maternity hospitals and residential blocks, although we are almost 1000 km away from a front-line. Yet we stay in our cities and towns despite blackouts, interruptions in heating, transportation, connections and supplies in order to work and support each other and our soldiers. Each family in Ukraine today has either a close friend or loved one who is fighting at the frontline. During a war the value of human life becomes negligible. This makes us love even more strongly and pray for our loved ones even more passionately.

Third lesson: "There are no atheists in trenches".

This is a phrase I've heard from a Baptist Military Chaplain. Many people who never thought about faith before are now attending various churches. There is a huge demand for spiritual communication, spiritual guidance, and spiritual leadership in society. We and other Anglicans will stay, praying and helping the needy, and Christ Church hopes to find a permanent Chaplain so that it can grow and flourish in a free and peaceful Ukraine.

A surprise visit last December by the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Diocesan Bishop, Dr Robert Innes, was an important morale booster. It was a gloomy time, with constant air-raid alerts, black-outs and cuts to electricity, heating and internet connections, so we felt supported and encouraged.

After a year of full-scale war we are entering Lent; the time of trials. But the darkest hour is before the dawn, and we look forward to Easter, the time of Resurrection and the Triumph of Life."

(From the website of the Anglican Diocese in Europe, slightly edited, and updated from a telephone conversation reported in the Church Times)

A prayer of St Patrick

c385 - 17 March 461

May the Strength of God pilot us.
May the Power of God preserve us.
May the Wisdom of God instruct us.
May the Hand of God protect us.
May the Way of God direct us.
May the Shield of God defend us.
May the Host of God guard us
Against the snares of the evil ones,
Against temptations of the world.
May Christ be with us!
May Christ be before us!
May Christ be in us,
Christ be over all!
May Thy Salvation, Lord,
Always be ours,
This day, O Lord, and evermore. Amen.

Father in heaven,
you have given us
a mind to know
you, a will to serve you and a heart to love you. Be with us in all that we do, so that your light may shine out
in our lives.

Reflecting Faith

How birds can remind us of our faith

By Rev Dr Jo White. (from 'Parish Pump')

There are many depictions of 'creatures' in the decorations of church buildings. Some are beautifully carved in the ends of choir stalls. Others can be found on pew-ends.

Sometimes there are human caricatures, perhaps of people the craftsmen knew in real life – their priest or bishop; or even their foreman! And sometimes there are carvings of birds, such as the pelican and peacock.

The peacock is known for its magnificent tail feathers, which it displays to impress potential mates and deter aggressors. From the early days of Christianity, the peacock has been used to symbolise eternal life, and is sometimes seen carved into memorial stones in churchyards. This is because it renews its plumage each year, shedding its old feathers and growing new ones. This also links to Christ's resurrection, as the peacock's glory is renewed again.

The pelican is a less obvious Christian symbol, although quite common in all art forms. It's seen as a symbol of atonement because when observed by naturalists many centuries ago, they misinterpreted the red tip on its long bill.

They saw the pelican preen its feathers, and it appeared to them to be ripping open its breast, so as to feed its young with its own blood. This story became symbolic for the Atonement, where Jesus allowed Himself to be pierced so that we may live. Although ornithologists view the red tip differently today, the pelican's legendary representation continues.

(Our own garden birds are nesting now, and in these days of tidy gardens, for hole-nesting species like sparrows, starlings, robins and the tit family it can be very difficult to find a home.

The British Trust for Ornithology (BTO) offers advice for building and placing nestboxes. Go to: <https://www.nestboxweek.com>

There are also lots of books available.)
