A Christmas Story

The brand-new vicar and his wife had just started in their first incumbency, to reopen a church in a suburban town. When they saw their church, it was very run down and needed much work. They set a goal to have everything done in time to have their first service on Christmas Eve. They worked hard, repairing pews, plastering walls, painting, etc, but a terrible tempest hit the area and lasted for two days. The following day the pastor went over to the church. His heart sank when he saw that the roof had leaked, causing a large area of plaster to fall off. The vicar cleaned up the mess on the floor, and not knowing what else to do but postpone the Christmas Eve service, headed home. On the way he noticed that a local business was having a flea market type sale for charity, so he stopped in. One of the items was a beautiful, handmade, ivory coloured, crocheted tablecloth with exquisite work. It was just the right size to cover up the hole in the front wall. He bought it and headed back to the church. By this time, it had started to snow. An older woman running from the opposite direction was trying to catch the bus. She missed it. The vicar invited her to wait in the warm church for the next bus 45 minutes later. She sat in a pew and paid no attention to the pastor while he got a ladder, hangers, to put up the tablecloth as a wall tapestry. The vicar could hardly believe how beautiful it looked and it covered up the entire problem area. Then he noticed the woman walking down the centre aisle. Her face was like a sheet. "Vicar," she asked, "where did you get that tablecloth?" The vicar explained. The woman asked him to check the lower right corner to see if the initials, EBG were crocheted into it there. They were. These were the initials of the woman, and she had made this tablecloth 35 years before, in Austria. The woman could hardly believe it as the vicar told how he had just gotten the Tablecloth. The woman explained that before the war she and her husband were well-to-do people in Austria. When the Nazis came, she was forced to leave. Her husband was going to follow her the next week. He was captured, sent to prison and never saw her husband or her home again. The vicar wanted to give her the tablecloth; but she made the vicar keep it for the church. The vicar insisted on driving her home, that was the least he could do. She lived on the other side of town. Three days later, what a wonderful service they had on Christmas Eve. The church was almost full. The music and the spirit were great. At the end of the service, the vicar and his wife greeted everyone at the door, and many said that they would return. One older man, whom the vicar recognized from the neighbourhood, continued to sit in one of the pews and stare, and the pastor wondered why he wasn't leaving. The man asked him where he got the tablecloth on the front wall because it was identical to one that his wife had made years ago when they lived in Austria before the war and how could there be two tablecloths so much alike. He told the vicar how the Nazis came, how he forced his wife to flee for her safety and he was supposed to follow her, but he was arrested and put in a prison. He never saw his wife or his home again all the 35 years in between. The vicar asked him if he would allow him to take him for a little ride. They drove to the same house where the pastor had taken the woman three days earlier. He helped the man climb the three flights of stairs to the woman's apartment, knocked on the door and he saw the greatest Christmas reunion he could ever imagine.

I find this story very powerful, as it speaks about loss, reunion, the impossible made possible. Also, we are reminded that the peace and stability we value and uphold is a precious gift, which many throughout the world are not able to experience. There is an increase in the levels of displacement throughout the world, such as the Middle East. As people seek a place they can call home, we are reminded of a family whom over 2000 years ago had to flee for the safety of their child. If they were to attempt it now, would they have been sent back, dismissed outright as a threat to ‘our way of life’, a disruption to the status quo, the kingdoms we build for ourselves?

After the challenges of last Christmas and despite the uncertainty that lies ahead, we pray this year we will be able to spend time with our loved ones. We also remember those who are no longer with us. For many families, this Christmas will be very difficult.

As the story told earlier, Christmas is indeed a time of impossible miracles. The biggest miracle of all is the birth of Jesus Christ and the transformation of our hearts.

Have a blessed Christmas.

The Life of your Ordinand Part Three

For those who have known me for long, know about my passion for running. Especially long distance running. It is, for me, a perfect way of combining exercise with contemplation, how weird it may sound. Wherever I go, I make sure to pack my trainers.

And to share a secret, ultrarunning or ultramarathons have always been a dream of mine, which probably sounds even more weird.

Now, you don’t need to worry, due to a running injury a few years back, this prevents me from living out that dream, and I am quite happy sticking to shorter distances today.

But ultramarathons can be done in other ways than running. Like when you are on a full residential week. To be very honest, I was absolutely looking forward to the residential, but not so much being away for a whole week. I sensed the intensity and was dreading a bit.

And it was beyond my imagination.

The week was a wonderful exploration about spirituality, worship, liturgy and preaching and I really appreciated our great and patient lecturers. The intensity of the teaching was just as I picture an ultramarathon. And it was just as exhausting, in the middle of all new perspectives and understandings that opened my mind. It did really inspire me immensely and I have a lot of great things to process, but... 22 lectures in 6 days, I’m just saying!

I guess you can have too much of the good.

We were a group travelling together by car up to Derbyshire. It was interesting that the road signs always said: “The North”. Where is that anyway? We couldn’t but asking if there possibly was an equivalent saying: “The South”, heading in the opposite direction... So, on our only afternoon off, we took off on a little road trip. We were aiming for a national trust site but ended up having coffee at The East Midlands Outlet. And on our way back we finally realised where we were, in between The North and The South. Finally, some clarifications.

And yes, we took three loops in a roundabout, just to get that picture!
Coming back to St Hilda, I have now experienced my first proper Remembrance Sunday and the church was so beautifully decorated. We don’t have such a thing in Sweden. If that has to do with our history of being at war being almost an ancient memory, or something else, is for sure something to discuss. For me, not having the same narrative, it’s a vital reminder of not only the past, but the present as well. There are still too many people fighting for their rights, their freedom and justice. And even if these struggles may not be on our doorstep, we must remember there is also a here and now, as well as a future for them, as much as for us. In the Eucharistic liturgy there is a prayer I come to think of: “This is our story. This is our song.” We are all part of humanity, and we are all connected. “Though we are many, we are one body, because we all share in one bread.”

We have also celebrated St Hilda, which was a really nice experience. Maybe because I got to wear gold for the first time. Childishly happy! And then I realised there is yet another new colour to be worn soon. The rose. Well, of course I made the mistake of saying pink and was in chorus corrected. It is r o s e. Anyhow I am excited. It’s all in the little things. The joy, the hope and the gratitude.

And let me finally share one of my sweet little mix ups: Apparently, I have a dyslectic touch in my being, which I have been very unaware of. It’s funny that even if you have the words in front of you, and can just read out what is there, words can come out in a different order anyway. I made the Peace to something different through this. So instead of the saying “Let us offer one another a sign of peace”, my mind clearly wanted something else, and I proudly pronounced “Let us offer one another a Piece of sign.” Or did I mean a Peace of sign? Now that’s a mind twister!

Maybe a ‘piece of sign’ is a way of saying we are offering a piece of ourselves to each other, forming a whole together. Like we are each a part and a sign of a bigger picture. Part of the whole story and the full song. Parts of that one body and one bread we share. That we need each other not only because we belong together, but also to say to God: we are here, your people. That is our story and that is our song.

When writing this, I have, guess what...?! ... Another residential in front of me! It’s just a weekend this time thankfully. This weekend we’re going to spent at High Leigh in Hertfordshire, which is a nice change. And I’m looking forward to digging deeper into the world of church history. Sadly, I will miss celebrating first of Advent with you. So, I wish you Happy New Church Year here and now!

Until next time, tell that story and sing that song!

Signs and Symbols

IHS
IHS (also IHC), a monogram or symbol for the name Jesus, is a contraction of the Greek word for Jesus, which in Greek is spelled ΙΗΣΟΥΣ. Hence: IHS (iota-eta-sigma) and is transliterated into the Latin alphabet as Iēsus, or Jesus.

This Christogram IHS, served as secret codes, whereby inscribed on a tomb, they indicated a deceased Christian, or on a doorpost, a Christian home.

St. Bernardine of Siena (1380-1444) and his student St. John of Capistrano (1386-1456) used the Christogram IHS to promote devotion to the Holy Name of Jesus. In their preaching missions throughout Italy, they carried wooden placards with the IHS surrounded by rays. St. Bernardine and St. John blessed the faithful with this monogram, invoking the name of Jesus, and many miracles were reported. They also encouraged people to have the monogram placed over the city gates and the doorways of their homes, instead of a family crest, to show their devotion and allegiance to the Lord. Countering the objections of some who considered this veneration superstitious, Pope Martin V in 1427 approved the proper veneration to the Holy Name and asked that the cross be included in the monogram IHS.

During this time also, because of the decline of Greek and predominance of Latin, IHS was viewed as an acronym for the Latin Jesus Hominum Salvator, meaning "Jesus Saviour of Mankind."

What is most important is that each of us shows proper respect, reverence and devotion for the name of Jesus. St. Paul in his Letter to the Philippians wrote,

"So that at Jesus' name every knee must bend in the heavens, on the earth and under the earth, and every tongue proclaim to the glory of God the Father: Jesus Christ is Lord" (2:10-11)

Sometimes the letters IHS are intertwined with each other.

The Jesuits, or members of the Society of Jesus, use IHS in their official seal, adding three nails below the H and surrounding the whole monogram with rays.

Nowadays some say it means “In His Service.” And others "I have suffered." However the true meaning is that it is the name of JESUS.

St Hilda’s Bible Study Group

Gordon and I have usually been part of a church home group or bible study group together and I had really begun to miss being part of a group that met together to study God’s word and to support and pray for each other. As it came towards the end of lockdown I felt strongly that there was a need to begin such a group again; a group that could be open to everyone, where there was no such thing as a silly question and where we could discuss our thoughts and sometimes tricky issues in a safe environment.

We have been meeting in church now for about 6 weeks and each week starts with a chance for a hot drink and sometimes snacks depending on what ‘Surplus to Supper’ has delivered for the community lunch that day! This makes for a lovely opportunity to share how we are and how the week has been. We began with a ‘whole bible bible study’ led by Gordon which is not nearly as scary as it sounds! It gave us a chance to look at a timeline of the events through the bible and see that it is a story that is not yet completed.
Since then, and linking into the COP26 summit, we have been looking at an eco-church series thinking about our relationship with the creation, with other creatures, and our impact on the planet.
One thing I have become much more convinced of in these weeks is the need for us to become more forthright about eco issues. Our planet is a gift to us from God and she cannot stand up for herself; I believe God has asked and is asking us to take a stand whenever we can about these things; from cutting down on our plastic use, to recycling and passing on unwanted items rather than binning them, all these things make a difference. We need to make our voices heard as well though, and be prepared to ask difficult questions where we can.
Bible study will stop for Christmas on 8th December and start again on 5th January thinking about something different. Why not consider giving it a try? Faith, like God, is living and growing and groups like this give us all a chance to grow our faith from mustard seed to tree. Perhaps eventually the group will grow so big we need to split into two!

Surplus to Supper

Those of you who have been coming to the Wednesday services of late, will have hopefully enjoyed a lunch of soup and a roll. Rather than the big supermarkets throwing food excess food into their bins and it then going into landfill, they donate food to an organisation called Surplus to Supper and they in turn distribute it to local food banks and organisations such as St Hilda’s.

Denise came up with the idea a few months ago about providing soup and a roll after the Wednesday service, so we thought we would give it a try. It has turned out to be pretty successful. It was decided to change the time of the service to 11.00am to enable lunch to be served straight after.

We never know what is going to arrive, we always have a delivery of soup along with different kinds of tea, coffee and sometimes fruit and sandwiches. Junior church have been very lucky some Sundays as we have had doughnuts and cakes delivered and last week some beautiful flowers.

People are free to take any excess food and we also take quite a lot down to the Salvation Army food bank so it’s a win all round. If you haven’t already, why not try our Wednesday lunch, it’s a lovely social occasion, if you can’t manage to get to the service that’s fine just join us for lunch.

Sheep and Lambs Together
Creative and Reflective activities for All Ages

Read  Luke 3: 1-6

Society looks at these things, and says: the grander, the higher, the better! And if you don’t have, or can’t achieve these things, you lose out. But John, and Jesus, say ‘No.’ That is not the way. The way – the way of the Lord – takes a different path. The way of the Lord – straight, level and smooth – has no obstacles in the way, no hurdles that must be overcome; no ‘grander, higher, better’ to keep people out. To those who would travel this way, the message couldn’t be plainer: repent and be baptized by water and the Holy Spirit and follow Jesus.

If dry go to the park and climb over and round the games equipment. If not make an obstacle course in doors if safe. Or use building blocks and create a mini obstacle course that toys have to get over. Then at home talk about how things in life can be obstacles that we need to overcome. And how can we overcome them.

Almighty God,
purify our hearts and minds,
that when your Son Jesus Christ comes again as judge and saviour
we may be ready to receive him,
who is our Lord and our God.
Amen
Read  Luke 3: 7-18

John the Baptiser – calls people to repent. The word repent in Greek is metanoia and means turn round and go the other way.

So why not play outside in the garden or in the park a running game – and when someone shouts turn around and go the other way! Could do it hopping skipping crawling – just remember to go the other way – a complete U turn.

Then think about what you could do in your daily life that might be a U Turn. It could be as simple as promising to do your homework as soon as you get in from school – instead of being nagged to get it done. Or it might be tidying up your laundry instead of abandoning it on the bedroom floor.

Or you might think about a U turn you could take to benefit the wider community.

God for whom we watch and wait,
you sent John the Baptist to prepare the way of your Son:
give us courage to speak the truth,
to hunger for justice,
and to suffer for the cause of right,
with Jesus Christ our Lord.
Amen
19th December 4th Sunday in Advent

Play a game of “What’s the opposite?”
This is where you say the word that is opposite of whatever the leader of the game says.
I say “What’s the opposite of ‘wet,’” you say ___? (dry!)

“On,” ____? (off!)
“Open,” ____? (closed or shut)
“Hot,” ____? (cold)
“Warm,” ____? (cool)
And any others you might choose.

Then finish with these:
“mean,” ____? (kind or nice)
“hungry,” ____? (fed or full)
“weak,” ____? (strong)
“hurt,” ____? (healed or healthy or not hurt)

In Mary’s song, known as The Magnificat we hear that God is turning the world upside down. But we are to be part of that process.
So spend a bit of time in thinking how you can help turn the world upside down!

Eternal God,
as Mary waited for the birth of your Son,
so we wait for his coming in glory;
bring us through the birth pangs of this present age
to see, with her, our great salvation
in Jesus Christ our Lord.
Amen
The Posada

Las Posadas (Spanish for "the Inns") is a traditional Spanish festival, which lasts for nine days from 16th to 24th December. It is based on the text from chapter 2 of Luke's Gospel: "She wrapped him in swaddling clothes and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn". It symbolises the hardship of Mary and Joseph's journey from Nazareth to Bethlehem and their difficulty in finding a place to stay where Mary could have her baby.

Each night during the festival a family in a neighbourhood takes it in turns to host the Posada and act as innkeepers for the night. The other villagers process from house to house as pilgrims, singing a traditional hymn requesting a bed for the night for the weary Mary and Joseph.

The procession is headed by a child carrying a candle in a paper lantern. Four young people follow, carrying small statues of Joseph and Mary riding on a donkey. After this come the rest of the children, then the adults and finally musicians. Each pilgrim carries a candle and some of the children blow whistles to accompany the singing.

The procession visits three houses. Mary and Joseph are refused entry at the first two houses, before being admitted at the third.

At each house it divides into two, with one group singing the parts of Mary and Joseph asking for shelter. The other group sings the innkeeper who either refuses, or finally allows entry.

When third innkeeper has sung a song of welcome, the Mary and Joseph figures are brought inside and placed in the family nativity scene. The pilgrims kneel around, pray the Rosary and sing traditional carols. The original Posada script is thought to have been written by St John of the Cross.

Parish Posada: Some parishes send a set of figures of Mary, Joseph and a donkey to travel around the parish. One family takes the set home from church. The following evening they are taken to the next family. This continues until Christmas Eve when they are taken back into church by the last family to welcome the figures into their house.

Why not make your own figures of Mary and Joseph. They could be lego or playmobil figures. It could be two dolls. Or you could make cardboard figures. Then move them around the house day by day – and then on Christmas Eve put them somewhere special in the house with the baby Jesus shepherds and Angel.
As you do so you could say the following prayer:

As we welcome these travellers in to a new part of our home
We remember all those who are travelling tonight
We remember all those who are looking for rest and shelter tonight.
We remember all those who care for and comfort those in need
May God bless us and all those we love as we journey with Mary and Joseph towards celebrating the birth of Jesus at Christmas. Amen
