Locum Minister's Letter

Dear Friends,

As I write this short letter I am entering on the final few weeks of my second period with you as your Locum Minister. (Last time was June 2006 to February 2007.) Once again it has proved to be a most enjoyable and stimulating experience. I thank you all for your support and your friendship and encouragement. This March will also mark the end of my sixth engagement as a locum since I retired in 2001, two of these lasting eighteen months. Those of you who know me well realised long ago that I shared the character of Tennyson's Ulysses – 'How dull it is to pause, to make an end, to rust unburnished, not to shine in use', but this time I am resolved that while perhaps 'tis not too late to seek a newer world', there will be no more locum ministries. It is good to be able to end up that part of my career on a high note. I am pleased to hand over to my successor a congregation that is vital and ready and raring to go. Now I trust you will welcome Dr Martin Ritchie with the same enthusiasm and openness as you always welcomed me.

John Stevenson, Locum Minister

Our New Minister

We are delighted that Dr Martin Ritchie is to become our Minister. After conducting worship at Greenbank on 21st January he was elected unanimously by 270 votes to zero. Please show your support for Martin by signing the invitation to him (known as the Call). This is available to sign:

- after the services on 28th January and 4th February
- during weekdays until 5th February from 8.30am to 12 noon, from 1.30pm to 3pm and from 7pm to 9pm
- on Saturdays 27th January and 3rd February from 10am to noon.

Martin will be ordained into the Ministry of the Church of Scotland and inducted to Greenbank at a service at Greenbank on 11th March at 6.30pm. This will be followed by a time of socialising and hospitality in the Hall.

Retiral of Roger Bland from the Kirk Session

Roger Bland has indicated that he will retire from the Kirk Session at the end of March after 48 years of service. He was ordained as an elder and admitted to the eldership in Greenbank in 1970. After a brief period with District 33, he became the elder for District 65 in 1974 and so has looked after the members there for over 40 years.

Roger has served on many of our Committees and was Preses of the Board from 1992-1997. He was our representative to the Presbytery and served the Church of Scotland centrally as a member of the Panel on Doctrine. He was also one of the most committed members of our team of prison visitors. Roger has been a dedicated member of Session, rarely missing a meeting and always contributing with wisdom, courtesy and a touch of humour. He has been a good role model for new elders and generously gave them his encouragement and support. In Session and in his District he will be much missed but we will continue to enjoy his fellowship as a faithful Greenbank member.

World Day of Prayer, Friday 2nd March 2018

Prepared by the Christian women of Suriname

The following information is an extract from the 2018 service notes.

“In 1910 more than 400 women met for the World Mission Conference (Edinburgh) bringing the experience and wisdom they had developed through years of ecumenical partnership in many countries. World Day of Prayer was born. Today World Day of Prayer is an ecumenical prayer movement bringing millions from over 100 countries together to pray each year.”

The service includes prayers and hymns for a different country each year. This year we are thinking about the people of Suriname. The service for the Morningside district, to which everyone is invited, will take place on Friday 2nd March 2018 in St Peter’s Roman Catholic Church at 10.30am.

Margaret Barrowman

Amy in India

If I was asked to recall what I would remember the most from my two weeks in India late last year, I would struggle. Over my time in both Tuni and Hyderabad I met over 600 children, quite a few of whom were my age. Every single one of them (and I'm not just saying this because I feel like this is the right thing to say) were incredible and more kind, brave and content than I could ever dream of being. Their smiles, that's what I will remember forever; their smiles when they were given their daily piece of fruit; when they saw a friend; when you asked them about their family or about how well they were doing in school.

However, to me they were much more than some inspiring children that I went to visit as part of a life changing trip, they were my friends. Friends that I could relate to, chat to and friends that I could just have a laugh with. No matter the language barrier or the completely different lives we all led, we all had hopes and desires for the future, for good grades, a good job, a family, but most of all happiness. They did all have one thing that I think many of my friends in the UK lack and that is determination. Here people often say they want to do this thing, go to this place but actually it's too much effort they don't believe they'll actually get there so they give up. But with my friends in India it's different. If they wanted anything they worked so hard for it. I've never experienced or seen the enthusiasm they had for school, for learning. They all had dreams for the future, all had ideas of what they wanted to be. They all had the determination to get to where they wanted to be and I look up to them for that, alongside many other things. They spend most of their time when out of school studying or doing homework each night as well as playing sport and games and chatting with friends, but when it comes to homework and studying, the older ones just sit outside with a group of their friends and help each other out with their work and they don't get distracted like I do or most other people I know do. They focus, get it done, and try as hard as they can so that they work to their full ability.

Their contentment is another thing that makes every single one of those children incredible. Most of the people in my school year have a smart phone, a TV and a computer or laptop yet I always hear and I quite often say how I wish I had this model of iPhone or this book or this laptop or new clothes or the words 'it's not fair' are uttered on a daily basis. Whereas the children in India, who have one small box of possessions which includes all their books and their clothes (and most of these boxes are not even half full), are the most grateful and content.

Appreciation of everything and everyone around you is such a beautiful gift to have and everyone, but especially the children that I met and made friends with in India, had that gift, even the ones with close to nothing appreciated every little thing they had. I really need to improve on that and so do most people.

The children I met and the friends I made in India are some of the most amazing, inspirational, welcoming and motivated people I know and I gave them so little but they taught me so much and gave me something I will remember forever and for that I am so grateful.

World Mission: 24th of the Month Event & Fairtrade Fortnight

Donald Trump's decision to officially recognise Jerusalem as Israel's capital city has received mixed reactions, with the majority of UN general assembly members rejecting the decision. Many believe that ongoing work to make Jerusalem a city of peace, life and dignity for all its inhabitants will become more difficult. For a number of years the Church of Scotland, along with Christian Aid and the Scottish Episcopal Church, and in partnership with the worldwide ACT Alliance of churches, has joined an ecumenical prayer vigil across the globe on the 24th of every month, to pray with and for our sisters and brothers in Israel and the occupied Palestinian territory.

God of love, lifting up the holy land for all humankind, breathe love and compassion into our prayers with a desire for nothing other than peace: peace in our hearts, peace for all creation, and especially peace in the land that is called holy.

God of mercy, even as we long to understand that which is often beyond our comprehension, we lay before you the hearts, minds and bodies of all those suffering from conflict in Palestine and Israel and from the ongoing occupation. Shower upon all the people of the Holy Land the spirit of justice and reconciliation.

We can all play our part in this by marking the 24th of each month in our calendars – a Prayer for Peace in the Middle East and other resources are available from the Church of Scotland website.

Fairtrade Fortnight

Although there is no Fair Trade Stall in February, Fairtrade Fortnight is from Monday 26th February through to 11th March. Our next stall is on Sunday, 11th March when we shall be selling Easter Eggs and other Easter treats together with some of our usual stock.

Christmas Event for children

In early December Greenbank Church held another very successful outreach event for children in our area which attracted 67 children of primary school age to hear the Christmas story. For three hours they took part in Christmas activities provided by members of the congregation representing all ages and many different skills.

We are so lucky at Greenbank to have so many adults and young adults happy to give up their time at such a busy time of year to prepare for this event, and to work with the children to spread the Christmas message in our community.

As has become our tradition, we finished with ice creams for all and carol singing led by Tom Inglis before the children were collected by their parents and left proudly carrying a bag of things (see pictures below) they had made. This year we had the added bonus of the lighting of the Christmas tree outside the church, which many families stayed to see, and we all enjoyed more singing. The children were able to light the way to the tree with the lanterns they had made that afternoon.

Thank you to all who helped!

The next collection dates are Sundays 11th February and 11th March at the Sunday service (table set up in the Main Hall). Thanks to all who have responded to my request for donations to this worthwhile cause. The need for good quality donations to the starter pack scheme is as great as ever.

A full list of the items wanted for the starter packs was in last month's Connections. Pick up a leaflet from me, see www.fresh-startweb.org.uk or telephone 476 7741 for more information about the work of Fresh Start.

Christmas Gifts

Thank you!

Very many thanks to everyone who responded so generously to our request for Christmas gifts. We were able to pass on a large number of presents which will have brought happiness to many children and young people and their families.

Janet Ferguson

Friendship Club

Here we are in February already. We begin on Wednesday 7th with a talk about the Vine Trust's work in Tanzania given by Elspeth Macdonald. We then look forward on the 21st to another of Walter Crosby's fabulous travelogues, this time to Jordan. On the 28th Kathleen will be entertaining the Music Group with some Romantic Reflections, then at our first meeting in March on the 7th we'll discover more about the Camphill Community, close to home at Torphin.

We are looking for suggestions for our annual outing in May so please get in touch if you have any good ideas.

Val Smart

Eco Column 2018

The Eco Congregation Group has looked at our progress towards Eco Congregation Award status, and considers that we are heading towards bronze standard. A fresh impetus is however needed to get us there, and this includes involving more members in a number of actions.

This year's activity was kicked off with a film night on 14th January, screening Leonardo di Caprio's film Before the Flood. It covered in graphic detail the continuing damage being done to God's creation, principally by the endless exploitation of fossil fuels and its now clearly established link to adverse impact on climate change. Projections for the near future suggest a permanent melting of the Arctic ice, sea levels rising, global warming, crop failures, widespread droughts and changes to the Gulf Stream flow which ironically might mean a much colder Europe.

Some 30 people attended the event, and there was a lively discussion afterwards, with suggestions made for local and personal action in areas such as food sourcing, campaigning for more tree planting, and lobbying against fossil fuel investment.

John Ferguson, leading the discussion, noted that as a congregation we needed more emphasis on worship content in relation to caring for creation if we were to meet Eco Congregation objectives. More action within Greenbank on eco matters (with more projects for energy conservation and other topics) was a priority, as was continuing to raise awareness amongst ourselves and the wider community about the crisis of climate change and the response needed to combat it.

There will be more activities and discussions arranged soon to take things forward, so look out for these opportunities and consider playing a part in them, perhaps especially if you are not involved in other church activities at present.

Finally, two advice points to take on board for 2018:

- decide finally to change all your light bulbs to LEDs – it saves you money and it saves the planet
- think carefully about buying products (including certain foodstuffs, cosmetics and cleaning materials) which contain palm oil which is not sustainably sourced. The rapid expansion of palm oil plantations has removed vast areas of Indonesian rain forest, with a consequent reduction in biodiversity and permanent damage to the richness of God's creation.

Work Party

By Christmas the Work Party cupboard in the Hermitage Room was bare, just empty boxes and a few odd balls of yarn. But if you think the ladies have been idle over the Festive Period you are wrong.

At our first meeting on 11th January hats, jumpers, baby cardigans, twiddle muffs and a knee rug were all handed in. Helen Allan reported that she had bought lots of D.K. Machine washable yarn and a kind lady had handed in a bagful of yarn to

Book Review

“Living with the Gods” by Neil MacGregor

Those who enjoyed Neil MacGregor’s radio talks and book A History of the World in 100 Objects in 2010 may be interested to see the publication in March by Allen Lane of the book based on his recent series on Living with the Gods. These reflections on religious culture consider various objects such as a coat made from seal-gut by the Yukik people of Alaska and a figure of Osiris, an Egyptian deity connected with life, death and the underworld. This various material is held together by “Mr MacGregor’s interest in the role of religion and ritual in human society”. (Economist newspaper, 4 November 2017)
