Harlow College Chaplaincy

Listening & Support Service

April - June 2019

In the last three months we have seen a decline in the number of students looking to book an appointment with the Listening & Support Service. Despite the great opportunity we were given to talk about chaplaincy to an entire Public Service class in the end of March, we didn't see much fruit come out of that.

Nevertheless, we continued going in to the college to pray, advertise our service and chat with the staff in the counselling and safeguarding department in order to design a plan to make chaplaincy more visible and accessible in the next term.

As mentioned in the previous review, in the beginning of this year the college put an end to some valuable tools we were using to introduce ourselves to new classes but there has been talk about reinstating induction days as of September and we are hoping to make very good use of those opportunities again.

In the meantime, a few invitations to speak about our work in the college around churches in Harlow have come up and we are looking to use those opportunities to liaise with Christians who are either students or staff in the college in order to help us raise the profile of this valuable service.

We hope to count on your prayers for an increase in the number of students we connect with and for new doors to open for this ministry.

Every blessing,

Maurício & Sibebe Colussi
