PRESS RELEASE

Fantastic and Free Family Activities can be found this February half-term at Bradford Cathedral

Some children show off some of their creative crafts at one of 2019's family activities days.

Bradford Cathedral's holiday family activities are back for 2020, this time with a spring-theme, on Tuesday 18th and Thursday 20th February.

Running from 10am – 2pm on both days, the family activities are free to attend and include crafts, colouring and quizzes.

HOSPITALITY. FAITHFULNESS. WHOLENESS.

In February we will be welcoming in the spring with some lovely craft activities involving flowers and woodland creatures. There will be the chance to make bug masks, take part in some tortoise-weaving, and you can create spring animal decorations as well as your own windmills.

Alongside these, there will be colouring, quizzes and family guided tours, at 11am and 1pm, for those who are curious to know more about the beautiful and historic building, the oldest building in Bradford!

Some of the example crafts on offer at February's half-term family activities.

Director of Education and Visitors Maggie Myers says:

“Bradford Cathedral family days are suitable for families with pre-school, primary age and secondary age children. There are a range of activities, plenty of colouring for younger children, and some William Morris-inspired colouring for teenagers and adults. You might want to do a family-friendly guided tour or explore this historic and beautiful building at your leisure.”

Bradford Cathedral holds regular free family activities in most school holidays. This year's dates include Tuesday 18th and Thursday 20th February, Thursday 16th April, Tuesday 26th May, Tuesday 21st July and Tuesday 25th August, all from 10am – 2pm. Look out also for our 'Messy' events throughout the year, also aimed at families and children. For more information, please visit bradfordcathedral.org/whats-on/family-events/
