

Dear fellow SBC'ers

Welcome to Work in progress, our 2020 church weekend (6-8 November). This will be our first ever on-line church weekend, and it replaces our planned weekend away. Thank you for bearing with us as we have made this enormous change. We hope you will be able to join our on-line sessions and share in the blessings of our time together. We believe God is building his church even as we face the challenges of life today.

Travel to the weekend is simple and speedy – you don't need to leave your home to join us! Just use your PC or tablet or phone to access our special weekend Zoom address by inputting the Zoom address on your email.

Our speaker is Mark Bainbridge, a former SBC member. Mark is a solicitor, and he is currently the National Director of the Lawyers' Christian Fellowship. He will be opening up our theme, teaching and encouraging us from the book of Nehemiah. In the sessions on Saturday and Sunday there will be time given to discussing what it means for us in SBC today.

Our weekend begins with a Hot Chocolate session at 7.45 on Friday 6th November. Make up a mug of chocolate, log on, and join in! We shall welcome Mark, hear his introduction and meet up with each other.

There is a special children's programme and we welcome Beth and Alex once again! The Zoom ID is on email.

There is ONE part of the weekend not on Zoom. There will be a short worship session on our regular YouTube channel at 10.30 on Sunday morning. This will enable those outside SBC who follow us on You Tube to connect with us on Sunday.

If over the weekend you need to contact the team or have a difficulty accessing the online sessions do get in touch.

For the church weekend team
