

Gosberton's first Scout troop, the Otter Patrol, pictured forming a guard of honour to mark the visit to the village of Sir Thomas Boor Crosby, Lord Mayor of London at the time and himself Gosberton-born. He returned to turn on the village's first water supply and also laid a stone at the public hall. Pictured are (standing, left to right) Leon Bates, Reg Marriott, Alfred Love, Bill Luff and Tom Coleman: (seated) Joe Coleman, Gordon Byron and Eddy Russell. Miss Alice Payne, the vicar's daughter, was the Scout leader at that time
