Finding My Place In A New Church

I arrived at St. Mark's Biggin Hill 19 months ago, as I headed off to Theological college to train for ordained ministry.

As part of my formation, I was encouraged, as all of us are, to be a 'life long learner'. To recognise that as we journey through life, we are continually changed by our experiences and understanding. As Christians we are called to be transformed by the work of the Holy Spirit, through and with these experiences and our ongoing learning.

So God has been transforming me on a personal level but also moulding me and preparing me for the role to come, aka a Vicar, and all that comes with it. Being a teacher, pastor, guide... etc and the many other things we see in Alison.

As part of my training, I was sent to find my place in a new church, St. Mark's, for it to be a place of practical learning alongside Alison, Mark and all that help lead, but also to find a place of rest and a family to call home.

As many of you will know, my journey started 33 years ago at St. Mark's when I made a formal commitment to God at my confirmation. This summer I will make another formal commitment at Rochester Cathedral where I will, God willing, dedicate myself once again, in agreement with the Bishop, to serve the church and the gospel of Jesus Christ within the communities that I am called to. So, my time at St. Mark's is coming to a close and although I feel I have come home, once again I feel I am being sent out from the place that Jesus first met me to tell others of who he is. I have decided that St Mark's has become a double home for me now and will hold a place forever in my heart.

During my time with you I have been adopted once again into the community of faith, encouraged, spurred on and loved. I have experienced how this church not only creates community but loves the wider community through children's events, fairs and community based events like Remembrance and the Biggin Hill festival.

I have been so encouraged to see how people take their place within this at St. Mark's. This came home to me in the Maundy Thursday Reflection this year that involved so many of you. Holy Week is such a special time of really getting to grips with the life, death and resurrection of Jesus, how he stands in front of our inadequacies, our rejection, our lost hope, our humanity, and selflessly gives himself so that we might be as free as we were created to be.

I was taken back by the voices that lead us in this reflection, that it wasn't just one voice, but the voices of the church who reflected what Jesus has done... this for me was a moment in time that not only connected me to my own call but that connected us together, and reminded me of what a great privilege it has been to journey with you all.

In Bishop Jonathan's sermon at our Patronal Festival, he called St. Mark's to continue to be a moving church, to listen to God's call for this time and place. I have personally found a church family that is welcoming, loving and has time for the individual (me). I would encourage anyone if you want to find a home, or know that you are missing something that you cannot quite put your finger on, then come and be loved by this community of faith. They have welcomed me and I am confident that they will welcome you as well.

St. Mark's will always be moving, will always be finding new ways of connecting into its community, finding their call and seeking God's heart for those around them. I realise in reflection that the DNA of St. Marks is within me, in seeking to adapt and be willing to be moulded into the person that God is calling me to be. I hadn't realised how much of a foundation St. Mark's has been in my life. Like the bricks of the building that were repurposed from their place in Peckham, I am being re-purposed for the next season of what is an exciting, but daunting, journey ahead. I know that he is also doing this with the people of St. Marks and that he guides us all, setting out the work before us, and calling us to partner with him as his Spirit moves. A moving church by name and nature.

Please continue to pray for me and my family and we will continue to pray for you.

May you be confident in God's call to you and step out boldly welcoming all that come and find their home both in Biggin Hill and within the community of St. Mark's.

St Mark's: 1959 – 2024

Our 65th anniversary celebrations started at Davey Street, North Peckham, on Saturday 20 April. Ten of us walked to Biggin Hill that day via Lower Sydenham, Beckenham and Hayes, a repeat of our walk in 2019. For some reason, it seemed a harder walk!

We held a Festival of Baptism on Saturday 27 April, with an amazing display of christening robes from over the years. Many thanks to Caroline Budimir for her work in assembling the many items, and to Chris Walker for her assistance.

We also had a large collection of retro toys, which included Pelham Puppets, a fully made Lego Millennium Falcon, two very popular Scalextric layouts, and three model railways. This layout is a Hornby Dublo set, surrounding a model of St Mark's church specially made for the occasion by Paul Nash. One day Biggin Hill might get its own station!

For the Sunday service we were privileged to have several notable visitors: the Bishop of Rochester, Jonathan Gibbs; Mike Botting, Mayor of Bromley, and his wife Kim; and both councillors for Biggin Hill, Melanie Stevens and Sophie Dunbar.

Finally, the icing on the cake... We had a special cake made for the occasion!

We give thanks to God for all those who have been part of this worshipping community since the building of the Tin Tabernacle in 1904.

Power To The Plants!

The garden has stepped up another gear as plants take advantage of warmer temperatures, longer days and sunshine to allow these solar panels, such as leaves, absorb the rays to fuel growth, flower and set seed, for the next generation.

However, there is a downside, plants we call weeds, also take over if not managed. They are no exception and, in some cases, can be thugs if left to their own devices. Bindweed, nettle, bramble are opportunists, hide among the spring flowering plants then push through to obtain maximum light. In a more natural setting, they are important to our wildlife and thrive. The best way to remove these plants is by digging out by hand with root attached is the best option. (See photo left, managing bindweed among the rose circle in the Sensory Garden) It is a time-consuming task but very effective. If difficult to get every root out, leave until autumn, lift your favourite plants, put to one side, dig out the offending plants, dispose in your green waste bin not your compost bin, as you don't need it to re-emerge, the following spring. If necessary, water thoroughly any replanting, as autumn can sometimes be dry.

Late spring brings an abundance of growth, colour and fragrance. It also gives the gardener an opportunity to take some soft cuttings, simple division and the "Chelsea Chop". What? You may ask. The idea is to cut a third of the top growth of Sedum, Phlox, Nepeta, Heleniums and other similar perennials that flower in July onwards. It delays the flowering period, useful if you have a small clump, you are then able to have early and late blooms, cutting some not all. Growth can also be quite sappy this time of year, cutting some of the top growth, will allow the plant to become sturdier and will not flop over so much. Carried out this time of year, during Chelsea Flower show week, hence the name given to this exercise.

Still time to carry out a small amount of splitting to create more plants, Hosta can still be done, Nepeta, but as plants are in full growth, the plant will wilt very quickly. Best done earlier in spring or leave until autumn.

Hundreds of tender plants are now bulging at the sides at garden centres, waiting to be sold. Those in full flower are very tempting, however, those with fewer flowers and plenty of growth will give you more joy, as these

The lady who taught Biggin Hill to dance

Shirley Cox was born in 1934. Her parents lived at Paygate Cottage, now the Tollgate service station, Leaves Green. They installed the first petrol pump there in 1927. They then moved up to Biggin Hill and had Aperfield Court Service Station built, site of the current Co-op: a Tudor style house with a large garage and a clock by the road.

When war came, the government requisitioned the garage and their house to protect Biggin Hill: Shirley's bedroom was used as a gun lookout, so she and her sister were evacuated to Wales for a short while.

Soon the family was placed in a house in Forest Drive on the Keston Park estate. Most nights they slept in an Anderson shelter. It was cold and damp. From the end of the road, they were able to see the blazes in London during the Blitz.

Aperfield Court garage

Shirley's father had been given work in the Sergeants' Mess at Biggin Hill airfield. One day after a big raid on the airfield, the siren gave the all clear. However, a German fighter aircraft came back for a return raid. Her father witnessed the devastation and this experience completely traumatised him. He had to give up work, so the family went down to her aunt's house in Dallington, Sussex, where they lived in one big room. To cut a very long story short, it's because of her mother's sister that Shirley started dancing!

Soon after the war, Shirley started dance classes. Her mother took her to Bromley dance classes run by Madeleine Sharps. The family lived in Blackness Lane for a while, then when she was about 12 they came back to Aperfield Court. She attended Holy Trinity Convent school in Bromley, taking the bus to get there. Shirley took her Elementary exam, going down to Maidstone to perform in front of a committee. With a grant from the Kent County Council, she was able to go to the prestigious Judith Espinosa school of dance near Piccadilly

Circus. She was just 16, and embarked on a 3-year course, where she took her Intermediate and Advanced. She took the solo seal, which she didn't get: you had to do 32 fouettés on point!

March 1953

Some of the girls in the group including Shirley danced for the Anglo-Australian Ballet when they were over in England. Shirley did pantomime at the Kings Theatre Hammersmith, taking the 705 Greenline bus to many venues. Qualifying with the Imperial Society in tap, she decided she would like to teach instead of taking the performance route.

One of Shirley's
the service station

At this point she became a professional, and qualified in Ballroom in Peckham under the tutorship of George Holden. Then she met Jimmy Harradine, whom she married in 1957. All was well until he was doing some clearance work. Something caught in his eye and he had to go into hospital, where a nurse fell in love with him. At this stage, Shirley was tending their 3-year old at home, living in the cottage next to the garage. Sadly, that was the end of their marriage! Shirley used to teach in the garage showroom with a parquet flooring and wide doors for cars to enter. In the post-war period there were no new cars being manufactured. The piano player was another Jimmy, Jimmy Reeks, elder brother of Don Reeks. At this time Jimmy was 16 or 17, a brilliant pianist. Sometimes Jimmy would go missing from home, playing all night long in the local pubs, mainly jazz. When he played, you just had to dance!

The Shirley Cox Dance School began in the mid-1950s. She had to move out when cars came back on the production line, so she taught in the Valley, the Tin Tabernacle, Westerham, the Norman Hall in Crofton, Petts Wood, and an old country club in Knoll Rise Orpington.

While teaching at Westerham, Shirley did a set of theatrical exams. The examiner came down from the Imperial Society.

One of her students was Beverley McAffer; she and Shirley both ended up teaching together for the next 40 years. Beverley's forte was choreography, tap and stage, while Shirley kept the ballet and ballroom. Shirley's first group dance display was at Keston Village Hall, with children from 5 to 15. They also put on a big show at Catford Town Hall. Children whose parents sent them to classes sent their children in turn. Groups performed at the London Palladium, the Stag Theatre, the Albert Hall (8 times) and also entered national championships.

The famous Peggy and Frank Spencer worked out of the Royston Hall in Penge; this is where Shirley met her husband-to-be, Alf, marrying in 1967. She did a lot of work with the Beckenham Festival. Two years later the Shirley Cox Dance Studio was built in her back garden. In the 1970s she started to do a lot of competitions, in Ballroom and the theatrical side as well. When she was about 40 Shirley became an examiner. This took her as far as Malaysia and Borneo. And then came Night Fever: Shirley was invited along with Peggy Spencer to go and see the premiere of the film. She and Peggy put together a dance based on what they had seen. The release of Saturday Night Fever encouraged many novices to try dance for the first time. Classes of 50 would queue every half an hour down Aperfield Road as far as the Cedar tree!

Over the years, the demand for dance has decreased. What caused it, she says, was The Beatles: a complete change in the type of music. As a result, the dance venues changed. Mecca made their dance halls smaller with more room for drinking. The music of Victor Silvester became less popular, and the Purley Dance Hall closed, and eventually the Hammersmith Palais. However, Shirley's passion for dance spurred on her tutees: Shirley's son Spencer competed in ballroom and Latin with one of the girls from Biggin Hill, Kim Parsons. Spencer and Kim competed in Come Dancing in 1977.

In 1981 Christina Bennett joined the Bluebells in Paris and became head girl. When Christina got married a few years ago, Madame Kelly from the Folies Bergères came over for the service at the Catholic church in Biggin Hill. Kelly McAffer and Adam Fincham won the 1982 British rock and roll competition. One member of the boys' team, Keith Cartwright, went to Paris and became a Kelly's Boy. The dance group won a major disco competition at the Hammersmith Palais. She and Alf were still taking groups to Disneyland Paris in alternate years until 2018.

Alf became president of the National Association of Teachers of Dancing. Fortunately for Shirley, he did the admin side of all the bookings and tours. Shirley's group was part of the Supadance League in the southern area where different schools dance against each other. They entered teams for Under 12, under 16s, under 35s and over 35s. But what did they wear on their feet?

In the 1950s a dance teacher in the East End of London, realising his pupils didn't have proper shoes for dancing, asked Mick Free, a gifted shoe maker living next door. Free fashioned the first quality dance shoe. The shoe was for ballroom and Latin dancing. It was called the Supadance shoe. David Barry Free, Free's son, and his wife Mariola, now own and manage Supadance.

Shirley speaks with a sparkle in her eye and a youthful enthusiasm for her lifetime's work. What were the standout events for her? One was when her team won at Blackpool; another was their appearance on Blue Peter. It's amazing to think that up till 2021, Shirley was still taking classes in her studio!

Sevenoaks Philharmonic Choir Concert June 23rd The Mikado

It's a long time since Sevenoaks Philharmonic has performed one of Gilbert and Sullivan's classic works, so we are excited to give this concert performance of The Mikado. This opera was first performed in 1885, and went on to be Gilbert and Sullivan's longest running collaboration, with over 627 consecutive performances at their resident Savoy Theatre, and thousands of performances worldwide.

We are delighted to be joined on this occasion by a full cast of experienced soloists from the Grim's Dyke Opera Company, who will perform in costumes handed down from the great D'Oyly Carte company, with whom several of the soloists have performed their roles.

Tickets are available from the Stag Theatre Box Office or by calling 01732 450175: Prices £18; £17 for over 60s; £6 students and under 21s.

THE MOVING CHURCH NEWS

IS THE PARISH MAGAZINE OF

St. MARK'S CHURCH, BIGGIN HILL

St. Mark's is known as the "Moving Church" as in the 1950's it was constructed from materials brought from the redundant church of All Saints North Peckham. This remarkable feat of dismantling and building carried out by local Biggin Hill people was accomplished through the initiative and vision of the then vicar, The Revd. Vivian Symons. He mobilised the local parishioners to create a truly worthy parish church in place of their ageing corrugated iron building. This fascinating story is recounted in an illustrated colour guide available from the Church.

St. Mark's is a pilgrim church; we do not simply accept the status quo, we are on a spiritual journey as pilgrims of old, actively seeking to draw closer to God and discover His will both in our own lives and the life of our local church and community which we love and serve. We are anxious "not to store up treasures here on earth" but to use all our church resources given by God, in His service and for His glory.

We want to share the good news of God's love in Jesus Christ with all those in our parish and neighbourhood. Hopefully this is portrayed by the way we live our lives, and speak to others.

We respect that we are all children of God, and we want to discover Christ in each other, encouraging personal growth in our individual relationship with each other and with Jesus.

Worship is an integral part of our love for God, and we want our services to reflect dignity and sensitivity as well as joy and thanksgiving.

St. Mark's Church, Biggin Hill - People's Prayer

Dear God in Heaven who loves us so much,
Thank You for everything You do and provide for us.

We pray for Your church and community here in Biggin Hill, that we may know Your plans for us in this special town.

Especially, we pray for help in bringing all Your children to You, so they may come to know You fully,
through our actions enabled by Your Spirit,
And through the life, teaching and example of
Your Son, our Saviour, Jesus Christ. Amen
