Domestic Abuse can take many different forms: psychological and emotional abuse, physical violence, sexual violence and abuse, coercive control, economic abuse, forced marriage, honour-based abuse and female genital mutilation, stalking and cyber-stalking.

Abusers come from all backgrounds and all walks of life and anyone can be a victim of domestic abuse – adults, children, people in heterosexual relationships and people in same-sex relationships, men, women, transgender and non-binary people, people from black, Asian, and minoritised ethnic backgrounds, asylum seekers and refugees, disabled people, religious and non-religious people.

It happens in intimate partner relationships and extended family relationships. It can also continue after relationships have ended – it is common for abusers to escalate their behaviour at the end of a relationship in an attempt to regain control over their partner.

Whatever form domestic abuse takes, it can have a significant, long-term impact on individuals, children, families and communities.

In Newcastle, we have a range of services to support adult survivors of domestic abuse, children and young people and anyone worried about their own behaviour towards someone in their family. Details of these, and the main national domestic abuse services, are listed in this directory.

Listed at the end of the directory are sources of information, support and training for practitioners.

(Click on the blue text to go to the organisation’s website to find out more about the different aspects of domestic abuse and the support services available.)

NIDAS (Newcastle Integrated Domestic Abuse Service)

Telephone: 0191 214 6501 (24/7)
Email: Nidas.Team@thirteengroup.co.uk
Download a referral form here

NIDAS offer a range of specialist emotional and practical support including:
- Refuge for women and children: the accommodation offers 14 private flats, each with up to three bedrooms. Staffed 24 hours a day, it provides a safe place for women and their children who are moving from abusive relationships. Staff help women to plan their futures and focus on developing their confidence and independence. They also provide support to move into alternative accommodation and specialist help for children and young people while their mother is being supported through the service.
- Outreach for anyone at risk of abuse: whether they want to leave their relationship or work to stay together safely.
- IDVA support for people aged 16+ at high risk of harm: the Independent Domestic Violence Advisors help male and female survivors find the right support, make safety and support plans, and work with the police and courts to help achieve long-term safety and access to justice.
- ISVA support for people aged 14+ who have experienced sexual violence: the Independent Sexual Violence Advisors support male and female survivors whether the crime has been reported or not. If a report has been made, an ISVA can provide support through the criminal justice process and ensure that the survivors voice is heard. If the survivor is unsure whether to report, an ISVA can help them consider their options.

Online CourtNav tool to help complete application for Non-Molestation Order / Occupation Order

An independent legal support service to help protect women against domestic abuse. A network of domestic abuse experts provide advice, support and guidance to support women to protect themselves from violence, gain court orders, access legal aid and navigate court processes.

Part of the project is the award winning CourtNav tool. This has simplified the Court application for a Non-Molestation / Occupation Order. Women who are eligible for Legal Aid will be signposted to a local specialist Legal Aid solicitor who will represent them. Anyone who is not eligible for Legal Aid or who cannot pay any contribution will be assisted by the FLOWS team so that their application has had legal input before the survivor has to submit it to Court.

FLOWS is a national project with a Family Law solicitor based at the North East Law Centre. Her role is to promote the project locally, support women to evidence their legal-aid entitlement, access legal advice from qualified solicitors, or to secure pro-bono legal advice.

For more information about the project please contact vicci@nelawcentre.co.uk

Information and support for practitioners

Safe Newcastle

This directory of local and national services was compiled by Safe Newcastle, the Community Safety Partnership for Newcastle upon Tyne. Our aim is to create a safe Newcastle by tackling crime, the harms caused by alcohol and drug misuse, anti-social behaviour, hate crime, community tensions, safeguarding people and communities from the threat of radicalisation and extremism and violence against women and girls.

Safe Newcastle provides a range of services relating to domestic and sexual abuse aimed at supporting practitioners:

- The Domestic Abuse Multi Agency Training Programme provides training courses for practitioners and volunteers working in Newcastle. The training can help practitioners recognise the signs, symptoms and indicators of domestic abuse, understand the issues affecting survivors and their families and respond quickly and effectively when someone needs protection, help and support.
- The Newcastle branch of the Northumbria Domestic and Sexual Abuse Champions Network aims to improve community and organisational responses to domestic and sexual violence. Members of the Network represent their team or organisation, receiving training and support from Safe Newcastle to be the link between their organisation and the Network, to be a conduit for information and to help their organisation enhance the response to people affected by domestic and sexual violence.
- A regular domestic abuse e-newsletter keeps subscribers up to date with information, advice, research, legislation and training opportunities in the domestic abuse sector.

For further information about Safe Newcastle’s work in this sector or to subscribe to the e-newsletter, please email VAWG@newcastle.gov.uk
You can also follow us on Twitter if you’d like to stay up to date with local and national news, announcements and training opportunities in the violence against women and girls sector. Search for ‘Violence against Women and Girls@Safe_Newcastle’.

Drive / Respect webchat and portal

Live webchat every Mon (2 pm to 4 pm), Wed (10 am to 12 pm) and Thu (2 pm to 4 pm)
Email: info@driveproject.org.uk

Drive, in partnership with Respect, offers support and guidance for professionals working with high-harm, high-risk perpetrators of domestic abuse via webchat, email and a professional community portal. The portal provides access to materials for professionals who work in frontline domestic abuse services, social work, policing, probation, health, substance misuse, housing or other services that work with perpetrators of domestic abuse. It also provides information about relevant events and webinars.
To get a password to access the materials on the website and join the mailing list, professionals can email info@driveproject.org.uk.

Rights of Women Professionals’ Advice Line

Telephone: 020 8138 8028 (Operates fortnightly, check the website for the schedule)

Immigration advice for non-legal professionals supporting vulnerable migrant women. Professionals may also be interested in joining the Women’s Migration and Asylum Network.

Southall Black Sisters

SBS run a remote online advice surgery for agencies and professionals who work with clients who have immigration problems and are subject to No Recourse to Public Funds (NRPF).

The surgery will take place every Wednesday, 10 am to 11 am, and is open to inquiries from any agency/professional operating in England.

The surgery will be useful to agencies looking for additional support/advice for their clients and will help to build their capacity to work in this area.

Visit the website to book a slot with an advisor.
