

ST MARTIN'S CHURCH, EYNSFORD

Diocese of Rochester

THE PROJECT BRIEF

The new tea station was the part of a major reordering planned by the PCC to improve facilities and access within the church. The west room of the north aisle was identified as being the most appropriate location for this facility. This room is separated from the main worship area in the nave by glazed oak screens that can be opened up so that it was a requirement that the tea station should be as visually discrete as possible and have the appearance of a piece of furniture. In practical terms the PCC also wanted it to incorporate a servery that could be moved out into the nave when needed and stored next to the tea station when not in use.

THE PROPOSALS

The new tea station and servery have been designed as two separate custom made components, both constructed in oak. The tea station comprises a cupboard unit containing two sinks and hot water dispenser mounted on top of an oak worktop. These are concealed below a retractable hinged lid. The unit has three lower compartments with two wall cupboards above to provide storage for china and cutlery, as well as the water heater and cleaning materials. The separate servery incorporates a counter top with further storage cupboards below.
