The Revd Richard Terrado-Reardon

Dear Friends,

To be honest I'm not quite sure what to write. We are coming to the end of another Lent, the world is still experiencing conflict and tragedy, people are still hurting, hunger is still a reality for so many people and in our own Benefice of New Windsor, there's plenty of hidden pain and human struggle waiting to be tended to in places such as The Windsor Homeless Project and Foodshare. What can be written when this cycle of chaos continues? The cost-of-living crisis, the war in the Ukraine, the earthquake in Turkey and Syria? I wonder if this is what it means to be in the desert? The symbolism of Jesus' forty days in the desert, like the forty years of the chosen people, brings to heart and mind the challenge of responding to the Sacred when all around us all we see is desert and dunes. Little shade, no oasis but an inkling, an intimation, we are being called to move forward, to move evermore deeply into the mystery of the divine.

As a priest and therapist, I am becoming accustomed to the reality of 'unknowing.' In the life of my clients, we have been unsure where the therapy will take us, or what will happen if an important change is created. As a priest I recognise that my ideas about the reality we call God are slipping through my fingers like the desert sands. And yet this is not a cause of anxiety or fear, for I experience my journey into 'unknowing' and the mystery of God as an expansion of vision, an expansion of what we call faith. It is also a call to trust, to trust the process of being in relationships whilst not knowing what will happen in the future. And yet, how easy is it to trust a process that doesn't seem to have a clear ending? I wonder if that reflects the whole story of going into the desert with Christ at Lent. We follow, but do not know the outcome, however, something happens to us on the way. By being with this man who is full of divinity, the One who is the face of God's compassion, we begin to create something new, but we have to do it in the desert, in the place where we are not in control.

When we experience loss, grief, a lack of connection in life or the toxicity of others, as well as the mystery of death in life, we experience a disquieting in the norm of our lives, and we are reminded ever so clearly, and painfully, we are not in charge of life. We are being led forth by The One who is the source of life and relationship, our response or lack of it will shape the contact point of God's life and our own.

As Lent will lean into Easter we will celebrate another extraordinary mystery. The desert will give way to the empty tomb and the trembling faith of those confused followers will eventually turn to joy. We are approaching the central mystery of our faith, the journey that we call life with God. It is difficult to understand what that actually means, but that's ok, I don't think we're meant to know. All that we are asked is "follow" and "trust." This is the way that leads to transformation, where endings and beginning merge, where old ways give ground to new ways of living. The resurrection of Jesus is our power to bring life out of death, this is the way God relates to us. Our struggles, our pain, our losses are the gold that God will use to make us shine.

Happy Easter. Blessings, Fr Richard.

Mothers' UNION

We had a very interesting illustrated talk by Anne Casson, ably assisted by husband John on the slide projector, about their recent holiday in India. Anne's fascinating account in last month's magazine enticed many and twenty two of us enjoyed the afternoon. Beautiful pictures illustrated the devotion and generosity of the largely Hindu population. It is a very old Religion with strong traditions. It was an extremely educational and enjoyable afternoon.

As usual the meeting was preceded by prayer, closing with tea and a chat. Many thanks to all who contributed to our Annual Appeal for items for the John Radcliffe Hospital, Oxford. Katy Kerr has safely delivered them. Your contributions are gratefully received and appreciated by the parents who have to remain at the hospital with their unfortunately very ill children. We were also given a generous donation which has gone to the MU Overseas fund. All of it will be used for the literacy fund. So many in our world do not have schooling. So many thanks for this donation.

The Bible used is the New International Version.

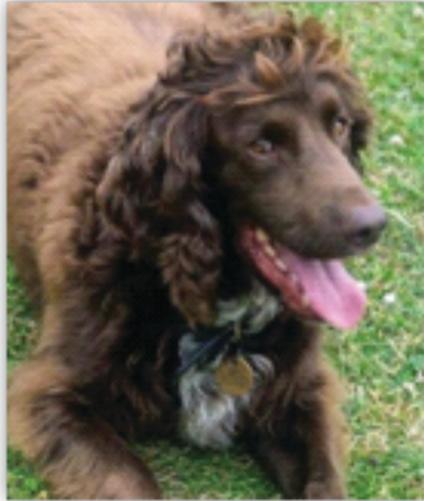

Even as Jesus ate that last Passover meal with His disciples, He warned them He was about to be betrayed. He took the bread, blessed it, broke it and gave it to them; He took the cup, gave thanks, and gave it to them to drink. The Old Covenant, based on Law, was ticking away its final hours; the New Covenant, based on Christ's body and His blood, was about to be ushered in. Jesus prayed in Gethsemane that this fearful cup of suffering might be removed from Him, but even more, that God's will might be done. And it was. Because of Easter we can approach God through His Son, Jesus Christ. He has opened the gates to heaven for us!

Paws for Thought

Dear Friends,

When The Boss is in the kitchen preparing food, I always like to stand by her side in case she needs my help. I'm not sure she realises I am there to help because she usually says, "it's no use standing there looking hopeful, this is my food not yours!"

It seems to me that in general we dogs are a hopeful bunch. I go off each day with The Boss for our morning walk feeling full of hope for what the day will bring. Hope that this is the day I will discover the source of that elusive smell in the park; hope that I will see my usual friends and their humans; hope that I might have chance to chase a squirrel; hope that I might find a piece of pizza or a leftover ham sandwich (and hope that I will be able to eat it before The Boss sees me). All these are great hopes with which to start the day and even if none of them come to anything, there's always tomorrow.

How sad it must be to feel hope-less, without hope. The women who came to anoint the body of Jesus on that first Easter morning had lost all hope. They were in a very dark place, they felt completely alone, abandoned by their beloved friend and teacher who had died such an awful death, abandoned by God. But despite their despair and grief, they were there at the tomb in the very early morning. God hadn't abandoned them. God was there with them in their pain and sadness. And suddenly there was hope after all. The hope of new life; the hope that brings joy out of sorrow and laughter out of tears.

I think hope is the message of Easter.

Yours in hope and happiness,

Barnabas
The Vicarage Dog

Pause for a Poem

As we approach Easter, I have chosen a poem that was submitted some years ago by Anne Carter (a member of Holy Trinity congregation) who died a few months ago. Anne found the poem in a book called "Living Belief" written by the theologian John Barton, which was based on Lent lectures that he gave to clergy in the Winchester Diocese in 1994.

Anne said that she liked the way the poet used the natural world to give an almost luminous meaning to the night.

The poem is medieval, written in Latin by an Irishman, Sedulius Scottus, who was driven from his native shores by Norse invaders during the mid-ninth century. It was translated from the original Latin by Helen Waddell.

Michael Bailey

Last night did Christ the Sun rise

Last night did Christ the Sun rise from the dark,
The mystic harvest of the fields of God,
And now the little wandering tribes of bees
Are brawling in the scarlet flowers abroad.
The winds are soft with birdsong; all night long
Darkling the nightingale her descant told,
And now inside church doors the happy folk
The Alleluia chant a hundredfold.
O father of thy folk, be thine by right
The Easter joy, the threshold of the light.

Sedulius Scottus (Ninth century)

Sponsored Walk

A reminder that John Halsey will be walking St Cuthbert's Way, 24 - 28 April, and would like to invite sponsorship in aid of the All Saints' Church Lighting Appeal. The Choir will have a sponsorship forms to hand after 10am Sunday services, if you can support John in this 60 mile journey. Most of the money has now been raised for the Lighting Appeal - it would be wonderful if this could complete the fundraising. We hope John might tell us all about the walk in a future magazine!

Holy Week and Easter across our Team

Holy Week begins on Palm Sunday which this year is 2nd April. There are services every day during the week from Palm Sunday to Easter Day. "Holy" means "set apart". So, Holy Week is a week which is set apart from the other 51 weeks of the year. It is set apart to enable us to experience more fully the events leading up to the crucifixion of Christ so that, through experiencing them, we are better able to enter into the full joy of the resurrection. It is difficult to experience the full joy of Easter morning without experiencing what comes before.

All our services for Holy Week are listed on the front page of this magazine. The traditional name for the three days leading up to Easter Day is the Triduum. During this period and on Easter Day itself, you may wish to note the following services across our four churches:

On Maundy Thursday (6th April) we have Sung Eucharist of the Last Supper followed by (optional) Watch of the Passion at St Stephen & St Agnes, Vansittart Road, beginning at 7.30pm.

On Good Friday (7th April) at the Parish Church of St John the Baptist, our Three Hours Devotion begins at 12 noon with an hour of cello, organ and sung music for Passiontide. The Second Hour, beginning at 1pm will include readings from Stephen Cottrell's The Nail taking us to 2pm when the Third Hour, Liturgy of the Cross, begins. The congregation is welcome to stay for the full three hours or to come and go throughout.

We have a service in each of our four churches on Easter Day, beginning at St Stephen & St Agnes Church with the First Eucharist of Easter (Dawn Eucharist) at 6am. This atmospheric service is a wonderful way to begin Easter Day and well worth the early start (especially as breakfast is served afterwards!). In addition, there is a traditional Holy Communion according to the Book of Common Prayer (BCP) at Holy Trinity Church at 8am; a Family Eucharist with traditional Easter hymns at All Saints' Church, Frances Road at 10am and Easter Praise followed by Communion at St John the Baptist, Windsor Parish Church at 11.15am. Please join us if you can!

Annual Meetings

The annual meetings in our three parishes are in April and May (they have to be held by the end of May each year). Firstly if you're not already on the electoral roll, please consider joining by completing in a form in one of the churches or you can download a copy from the Diocese of Oxford website. You can be on more than one church electoral roll but can only be elected to a role (office) in one specific parish. Being on the electoral roll gives you an opportunity to get more involved in church life - you could be elected as a churchwarden, to the PCC or, this year, as your parish's Deanery Synod Representative or nominate/ elect someone. Parochial Church Councils are a group of people who between them all have a broad range of skills and experience. They act as trustees and support the rector, in promoting the mission of the church and overseeing the maintenance and repair of parish building(s) and contents.

Our Annual Meetings consist of two separate meetings which will be held on the same day.

The meeting to elect churchwardens is normally held first and can be attended by anyone on the church electoral roll or resident in the parish (ie on the government electoral roll of the parish). Churchwardens, with the clergy, are responsible for the day-to-day running of the parish. You can find out more about the role, including a short film by Bishop Steven (Bishop of Oxford) on the diocesan website. Nominations for churchwarden must be received by the Rector prior to the meeting (form here).

The Annual Parochial Church Meeting usually follows the election of the wardens and can be attended by anyone on the church electoral roll. At this meeting attendees consider reports on the church's finances and fabric and receive other reports. The new Parochial Church Council is either entirely or partially elected (if the parish has previously agreed that not all the current members retire every year). If you are interested and would like to know more, please do have a chat with one of the wardens or Revd Sally. You can also get a general overview about being a PCC member on the diocesan website.

A short meeting of the PCC follows the APCM where members elect the Vicechair, Treasurer, Secretary and others. All three meetings usually take less than an hour so you'll be home in time for lunch!

This month it was...

150 years ago, on 4th April 1873 that the Kennel Club was founded in London. It oversees dog shows and dog agility competitions and operates Britain's national register of pedigree dogs. The Kennel Club licenses dog shows throughout the UK, but the only dog show that it actually runs is Crufts. The Kennel Club recognises 221 breeds, of which the Labrador Retriever is probably most popular.

100 years ago, on 15th April 1923 that insulin became generally available for the treatment of diabetes.

Also 100 years ago, on 26th April 1923 that Prince Albert, Duke of York (later King George VI) married Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon (later Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother) at Westminster Abbey in London.

90 years ago, on 3rd April 1933 that the first flight over Mount Everest took place. British pilots the Marquis of Clydesdale and Donald McIntyre flew two biplanes over the summit.

80 years ago, from 20th April to 13th May 1943 that the final phase of World War 2's Tunisia campaign took place. An Allied victory, and the Axis forces were ejected from North Africa.

Also 80 years ago, on 30th April 1943 that the Bergen-Belsen concentration camp was established in Germany. The former prisoner-of-war camp was converted into a holding camp, mainly for Jews. Tens of thousands of people died of starvation and disease in the overcrowded, unsanitary conditions.

75 years ago, on 7th April 1948 that the World Health Organization (WHO) was founded in Geneva, Switzerland as a specialist agency of the United Nations.

Also 75 years ago, on 30th April 1948 that the Land Rover, a British all-terrain vehicle, was officially launched at the Amsterdam Motor Show. According to Yougov.co.uk, nowadays 95% of us have heard of them, and 58% of us admire them.

70 years ago, on 16th April 1953 that Queen Elizabeth II launched the Royal Yacht Britannia. It was decommissioned in 1997. The Royal Family no longer owns a royal yacht.

60 years ago, on 16th April 1963 that American civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jnr. wrote his famous 'Letter from Birmingham Jail' while imprisoned in Alabama. He stated that the Black community was forced to protest when the white power structure left them no choice.

50 years ago, on 4th April 1973 that the World Trade Centre in New York City was officially opened. It was destroyed in the 9/11 terrorist attacks in 2001.

Also 50 years ago, on 8th April 1973 that Pablo Picasso, Spanish artist died. Co-founder of the Cubism movement, he is considered one of the greatest artists of the 20th century.

40 years ago, on 1st April 1983 that tens of thousands of anti-nuclear weapons protestors formed a 14-mile human chain in Berkshire. They linked the US airbase at Greenham Common, the nuclear research centre in Aldermaston, and an ordnance factory in Burghfield.

40 years ago, on 15th April 1983 that Corrie ten Boom, a Dutch writer and Holocaust survivor, died. She wrote about her experiences in Christian books that became best-sellers.

30 years ago, on 22nd April 1993 that Stephen Lawrence, an 18-year-old British teenager, was murdered in a racially motivated attack while waiting for a bus in Eltham, London. The high-profile case was widely covered by the media, and an inquiry found that the Metropolitan Police Service, which originally investigated the crime, was institutionally racist.

30 years ago, on 29th April 1993 that Queen Elizabeth II announced that Buckingham Palace would open to the public for the first time, to raise funds to repair fire damage at Windsor Castle.

Also 30 years ago, on 30th April 1993 that CERN, the creators of the World Wide Web, announced that it could be used for free by anyone. That decision has shaped the modern world as we know it.

25 years ago, on 10th April 1998 that the Good Friday Agreement was signed in Northern Ireland.

20 years ago, on 9th April 2003 that US troops took control of Iraq's capital city, Baghdad. Jubilant Iraqis celebrated the end of Saddam Hussein's regime.

Also 20 years ago, on 14th April 2003 that the Human Genome Project was successfully completed, with over 99% of the human genome sequenced and mapped, including all of the genes.

The Passionflower

This beautiful climbing plant that grows in many of our gardens, usually flowering from July to October, was discovered in South America by Spanish missionaries centuries ago. Drawings were sent back to Europe and in 1609 an Italian priest interpreted the flower to represent the crucifixion, otherwise known as the Passion.

The five petals and five sepals represent the 10 disciples who remained steadfast (Judas and Peter both abandoned Jesus). The corona is the crown of thorns. The stigma is the cross or nails, and the five stamens are the number of wounds Jesus received.
